this monograph proposes a comprehensive and fully automatic approach to designing text analysis pipelines for arbitrary information needs that are optimal in terms of run time efficiency and that robustly mine relevant information from text of any kind based on state of the art techniques from machine learning and other areas of artificial intelligence novel pipeline construction and execution algorithms are developed and implemented in prototypical software formal analyses of the algorithms and extensive empirical experiments underline that the proposed approach represents an essential step towards the ad hoc use of text mining in web search and big data analytics both web search and big data analytics aim to fulfill people's needs for information in an ad hoc manner the information sought for is often hidden in large amounts of natural language text instead of simply returning links to potentially relevant texts leading search and analytics engines have started to directly mine relevant information from the texts to this end they execute text analysis pipelines that may consist of several complex information extraction and text classification stages due to practical requirements of efficiency and robustness however the use of text mining has so far been limited to anticipated information needs that can be fulfilled with rather simple manually constructed pipelines

Studying Audiences 1996

if architectural judgment were a city a city of ideas and forms then it is a very imperfect city when architects judge the success or failure of a building the range of ways and criteria which can be used for this evaluation causes many contentious and discordant arguments proposing that the increase in number and intensity of such arguments threatens to destabilize the very grounds upon which judgment is supposed to rest this book examines architectural judgment in its historical cultural political and psychological dimensions and their convergence on that most expressive part of architecture namely architectural character it stresses the value of reasoned judgment in justifying architectural form a judgment based on three sets of criteria those criteria that are external to architecture those that are internal to architecture and those that pertain to the psychology of the architect as image maker external criteria include philosophies of history or theories of modernity internal criteria include architectural character and architectural composition while the psychological criteria pertain to mimetic rivalry or rivaling desires for the same architectural forms yet although architectural conflicts can adversely influence judgment they can at the same time contribute to the advancement of architectural culture the critical history of edgar allan poe s the narrative of arthur gordon pym a dialogue with unreason traces the complex scattered criticism of poe s most anomalous work as it has steadily grown in prominence to a central position in the study of poe and american literature the winding route the criticism of pym has charted as convoluted as the narrative itself has been a history of disagreement at almost every level at which critics and scholars read texts including the nature and genre of the work the seriousness or levity of the author s intent and its stature as a work of genius hackwork or something in between the unique set of thematic and narrative problems the work poses has eluded every hermeneutic structure brought against it so far consistently undermining the very reading strategies it seems to invite the only comprehensive critical history and bibliography of pym this study fills a large hole poe scholars have long felt as it analyzes the ways in which critics and critical camps have attempted to confront rationalize contain or evade its novel and disturbing features in the process the criticism is correlated with the popular reception and the international response because literary history has entangled no author with his work more than poe ultimately this book is as much a study of poe as of pym at every point therefore this study embeds the critical response to pym in the history of poe studies in general as well as in the larger context of american literary theory and history includes bibliography and index
