absentee owners single minded concern for the bottom line friction between workers and management hostile takeovers at the hands of avaricious and unaccountable multinational interests the story of america s industrial decline is all too familiar and yet somehow still hard to fathom jamie sayen spent years interviewing residents of groveton new hampshire about the century long saga of their company town the community s paper mill had been its economic engine since the early twentieth century purchased and revived by local owners in the postwar decades the mill merged with diamond international in 1968 it fell victim to anglo french financier james goldsmith s hostile takeover in 1982 then suffered through a series of owners with no roots in the community until its eventual demise in 2007 drawing on conversations with scores of former mill workers sayen reconstructs the mill s human history the smells of pulp and wood the injuries and deaths the struggles of women for equal pay and fair treatment and the devastating impact of global capitalism on a small new england town this is a heartbreaking story of the decimation of industrial america to understand how albert einstein s pacifist and internationalist thought matured from a youthful inclination to pragmatic initiatives and savvy insights holmes gives readers access to einstein in his own words through his private writings she shows how einstein s thoughts and feelings in response to the war evolved from horrified disbelief to ironic alienation from both the war s violence and patriotic support for it by the german people to a kind of bleak endurance meanwhile his outward responses progressed from supporting initiatives of other pacifists to developing his own philosophy of a postwar order to being the impetus behind initiatives in the beginning of the postwar period einstein's writing reflected an optimism about germany's new weimar republic and trust in the laudatory effects of military defeat and economic hardship on the german people he clearly supported the principles in us president woodrow wilson's fourteen points speech yet einstein s enthusiasm diminished as he became disappointed in the early weimar republic s leaders and as his aversion to the culture of violence developing in germany grew he also felt offended at the betrayal of wilson s principles in the treaty of versailles drawing upon personal correspondence and public proclamations holmes offers an intimate and nuanced exploration of the pacifist thought of one of our greatest intellectuals this no holds barred narrative of the failure of conservation in northern new england s forests envisions a wilder more equitable lower carbon future for forest dependent communities jamie saven approaches the story of northern new england s undeveloped forests from the viewpoints of the previously unheard the forest and the nonhuman species it sustains the first peoples and in more recent times the disenfranchised human voices of the forest including those of loggers mill workers and citizens who like henry david thoreau wish to speak a kind word for nature from 1988 to 2016 paper companies sold their timberlands and closed seventeen paper mills in northern new england policy makers ceded veto power to large absentee landowners who tried to preserve the status quo by demanding additional tax cuts and other subsidies for economic elites they vetoed measures designed to restore and preserve forest health at present about half of the former industrial forests are classified as degraded and the regional economy continues to be trapped in low value commodity markets this book operates as a case study of how a rural resource region can respond to a global economy responsible for climate change habitat loss and degradation and environmental injustice sayen offers a blueprint for restoring vast wildlands and transitioning to a lower carbon high value adding local economy while protecting the natural rights of humans nonhumans and unborn generations now a major series genius on national geographic produced by ron howard and starring geoffrey rush einstein is the great icon of our age the
