Engaging Terror 2009 hospitality in a time of terror strangers at the gate offers a reading of hospitality that suggests the encounter with strangers is at the core of cultural production and culture itself in the aftermath of the terrorist attacks of september 11 2001 it documents the significance of hospitality after the terrorist attacks particularly as such an ethics is so provocatively raised or disavowed by a predominantly visual and cultural archive that has been and continues to be consumed by millions of people around the world this book utilizes works of cultural memory film art and literature that show the breadth of hospitality s influence but that offer a depth of insight historical specificity and theoretical intensity that only a product created in the aftermath of 9 11 allows the september 11 memorial and museum in new york city for example is best understood as an institution defined by the question of hospitality particularly as hospitality is engaged or disavowed through an experience with loss this book also considers how hospitality might function in consideration of the violence perpetuated against bodies marked by discourses of race gender and sexuality as is the case in the 2011 film zero dark thirty and separately explores how alternative modes of hospitality are enabled by the fluid and dynamic space of the street and the urban art found there the final chapter examines don delillo s 2007 novel falling man and argues that the novel demonstrates a sustained engagement with hospitality through the figure of organic shrapnel a metaphor that suggests the possibility of being literally and figuratively embedded by another the purpose of this book is to point out the diverse and even devastating ways that hospitality appears in ways that remind us that if hospitality as we understand it is failing it matters more than ever how we deploy it

The Self-Reflexive Art of Don DeLillo 2019-06-27 peripheralizing delillo tracks the historical arc of don delillo s poetics as it recomposes itself across the genres of short fiction romance the historical novel and the philosophical novel of time drawing on theories that capital rather than the bourgeoisie is the displaced subject of the novel thomas travers investigates delillo s representation of fully commodified social worlds and re evaluates marxist accounts of the novel and its philosophy of history deploying an innovative re periodisation travers considers the evolution of delillo s aesthetic forms as they register and encode one of the crises of contemporary historicity the secular dynamics through which a society organised around waged work tends towards conditions of under and unemployment situating delillo within global histories of uneven and combined development travers explores how delillo s treatment of capital and labour affect and narration reconfigures debates around realism and modernism the delillo that emerges from this study is no longer an exemplary postmodern writer but a composer of capitalist epics a novelist drawn to peripheral zones of accumulation zones of social death whose surplus populations his fiction strives to re historicise if not re dialecticise as subjects of history

The Silence 2020-10-29 more than any other major american author don delillo has examined the manner in which contemporary american consciousness has been shaped by the historically unique incursion into daily life of information military and consumer technologies in delillo s fictions technological apparatuses are not merely set pieces in the characters environments nor merely tools to move the plot along they are sites of mystery and magic whirlpools of space time and convex mirrors of identity television sets filmic images automobiles airplanes telephones computers and nuclear bombs are not simply objects in the world for delillo s characters they are psychological phenomena that shape the possibilities for action influence the nature of perception and incorporate themselves into the fabric of memory and identity delillo is a phenomenologist of the contemporary technoscape and an ecologist of our new kind of natural habitat through a close reading of four delillo novels technology and postmodern subjectivity in don delillo s novels examines the variety of modes in which delillo s fictions illustrate the technologically mediated confluence of his human subjects and the field of cultural objects in which they discover themselves the model of interactionism between human beings and technological instruments that is implicit in delillo s writing suggests significant applications both to the study of other contemporary novelists as well as to contemporary cultural studies
