both w g sebald 1944 2001 and the austrian author christoph ransmayr 1954 were born too late to know directly the violence of the second world war and the holocaust but these traumatic events are a persistent presence in their work in a series of close readings of key prose texts dora osborne examines the different ways in which the traces of a traumatic past mark their narratives by focusing on the authors use of visual and topographical tropes she shows how blind spots and inhospitable places configure signs of past violence but ultimately resist our understanding whilst links between the two authors are well documented this book offers the first full length study of sebald and ransmayr and their complicated relation to the traumatic traces of national socialism dora osborne is lecturer in german at the university of nottingham

Sustainable Development - the Cultural Perspective

this current volume is a result of the seventh and eighth international forum on sustainable technological development in a globalizing world the seventh forum was held june 9 12 2010 in berlin the karlsruhe institute of technology hosted the event which was organized around culture and sustainability what we each value as a society as a country in our culture is what we want to protect what is sustainable is only what we value this applies all the more to sustainable development which is planned for long time scales and therefore to go beyond individual sustainable technology solutions as well as economic and political cycles what we hold in high regard is the result of cultural influences consequently we need cultural change in the sense of sustainable development in order to secure sustainability pathways in the long term the key question arising is whether and how this change can be brought about the following introduction leads us into the specific discussion at the end of the seventh forum participants concluded that more specific case studies would be useful and recommended that the eighth forum provide a focus for case studies since the remainder of the eighth forum held march 8 10 2011 in melbourne florida focused on alternative energy with oral papers not really appropriate as written papers it was decided to include the case studies in combination with those papers from berlin to provide a holistic discussion of culture and sustainability that is the concept for this volume p 13 14 neglected the agency of the governed this collection argues that limited statehood the lack of state capacities in most parts of the global south provides opportunities for the governed to raise their voices and be listened to thus people on the receiving end of development cooperation state building or security interventions can significantly shape global dynamics of normative and institutional change drawing on the emerging body of literature on the agency of the governed this book assesses the current dynamics of transfer and diffusion studies at the interstice of political science and social anthropology by focusing on the agency of the governed the authors integrate a broad spectrum of issues and debates from the proliferation of global norms to state and security building to international policy cooperation this book will be of interest to students and researchers of global politics and international relations particularly those focusing on the global south it was originally published as a special issue of the online journal third world thematics

Ideologies in Archaeology

archaeologists have often used the term ideology to vaguely refer to a realm of ideas scholars from marx to zizek have developed a sharper concept arguing that ideology works by representing or misrepresenting power relations through concealment enhancement or transformation of real social relations between groups ideologies in archaeology examines the role of ideology in this latter sense as it pertains to both the practice and the content of archaeological studies while ideas like reflexive archaeology and multivocality have generated some recent interest this book is the first work to address in any detail the mutual relationship between ideologies of the past and present ideological conditions producing archaeological knowledge contributors to this volume focus on elements of life in past societies that went without saying and that concealed different forms of power as obvious and unquestionable from the use of burial rites as political theater in iron age germany to the intersection of economics and elite power in mississippian mound building the contributors uncover complex manipulations of power that have often gone unrecognized they show that occam s razor the tendency to favor simpler explanations is sometimes just an excuse to avoid dealing with the historical world in its full complexity jean paul demoule s concluding chapter echoes this sentiment and moreover brings a continental european perspective to the preceding case studies in addition to situating this volume in a wider history of archaeological currents demoule identifies the institutional and cultural factors that may account for the current direction in north american archaeology he also offers a defense of archaeology in an era of scientific relativism which leads him to reflect on the responsibilities of archaeologists includes contributions by susan m alt bettina arnold uzi baram reinhard bernbeck matthew david cochran jean paul demoule kurt a jordan susan kus vicente lull christopher n matthews randall h mcguire rafael micó cristina rihuete herrada paul mullins sue novinger susan pollock victor raharijaona roberto risch kathleen sterling ruth m van dyke

Translating Canada

in the last thirty years of the twentieth century canadian federal governments offered varying degrees of support for literary and other artistic endeavour a corollary of this patronage of culture at home was an effort to make the resulting works available for audiences elsewhere in the world current developments in the study of translation and its influence as cultural transfer have made possible new assessments of such efforts to project a national image abroad translating canada examines cultural materials exported by canada in addition to those selected for acquisition by german publishers theatres and other culture brokers it also considers the motivations of particular translators and the reception by german reviewers of works by a wide variety of canadian writers novelists and poets playwrights and children s authors literary and social critics above all the book maps for its readers a number of significant though frequently unsuspected roles that translation assumes in the intercultural negotiation of national images and values the chapters in this collection will be of value to students teachers and scholars in a number of fields informed lay throughout his life franz kafka was fascinated by photography a medium which for him came to encapsulate both the attractions and the pitfalls of modern life kafka s personal engagement with the medium as a keen viewer and collector of photographs as well as an amateur photographer is reflected in his writings which explore photography from a variety of different perspectives by far the most frequently and extensively discussed visual medium in kafka s texts photography is paradigmatic of his relationship to visuality more generally this study not only explores photography s recurrence as a theme within his texts but it is also the first to take systematic account of kafka s use of photographs as literary source material kafka and photography presents one of the most important modern writers from an entirely new perspective it sheds new light on familiar works and uncovers unexplored aspects of kafka s engagement with his time and context providing a chronological account of key prose works as well as the personal writings this study is accessible to students and lay readers it will be of interest not only to literary scholars but also to those working in photography media and cultural studies its detailed textual analyses are set against a richly documented historical context which illustrates kafka s interest in contemporary culture through a range of visual material taken from public as well as private sources some of which has only recently become available as this book demonstrates photography had a profound impact on kafka s literary imagination and as such helps to explain the mesmerizing intensity of enigmatic visual detail which is a hallmark of his narratives this paper examines contractionary currency crashes in developing countries it explores the causes of india s productivity surge around 1980 more than a decade before serious economic reforms were initiated the paper finds evidence that the trigger may have been an attitudinal shift by the government in the early 1980s that unlike the reforms of the 1990s was pro business rather than pro market in character favoring the interests of existing businesses rather than new entrants or consumers a relatively small shift elicited a large productivity response because india was far away from its income possibility frontier
