The Life of Robert, Lord Clive 1836 robert clive 1725 1774 later baron clive of plassey is widely considered the founder of british india he arrived in madras as a clerk for the east india company in 1744 through timely promotion and a clear affinity for military leadership he proceeded to consolidate the company s commercial and territorial position in south india before doing the same in the northeast in bengal in 1757 company troops under his command defeated the nawab of bengal at the battle of plassey this victory set in motion the east india company s ascendancy over much of india and eventual development into the world s largest transnational trading company at the time this paved the way for the 1857 creation of the british raj which would last for another ninety years clive is a fascinating and important historical figure a lowly company employee who rose to great heights an informally trained military commander who led company and local indian troops to a series of stirring victories over local rivals who were supported by the french a grasping politician who used his great wealth to secure a prominent social position and finally a hounded society notable who plagued by illness allegedly took his own life no one in the early days of the british ventures in india was as well known or as controversial as clive today when empire and globalism are witnessed and talked about with ease clive s position as both a servant of the east india company and an agent of imperialism makes him a surprisingly resonant figure

The life of Robert, lord Clive 1836 sent to india to make his fortune as a merchant an english youth returns home after a ten year adventure in which he makes a fortune and receives military honors while assisting the triumph of british influence in the indian empire
