possessions and how believers handle them are key topics in the nt in this book fiona gregson examines the practice and theology of sharing possessions in community in the nt by examining six diverse nt examples of sharing each example is considered in its historical and cultural context before being compared to one or more non christian examples to identify similarities and differences gregson identifies common characteristics across the nt examples and consistent distinctives in how the early church shared possessions compared to the surrounding cultures gregson s findings demonstrate that christians subverted roman patronage expectations

christian groups were more diverse in their membership and exhibited more flexible less structured examples of sharing christians placed greater emphasis on the free choice of individuals to contribute to sharing and christians more frequently participated in eating together and had a greater focus on relational bonds than was common in graeco roman society culture the collection of the elder seneca assembles quotations from scores of declaimers over a period spanning sixty years from the augustan age through the early decades of the empire a view is offered onto a literary scene for this critical period of roman letters that is numerously populated highly interactive and less dominated by just a few canonical authors despite this potential modern readings have often lumped declaimers together en masse and organizational principles basic to seneca s collection remain overlooked this volume attempts to hear the individual speech of declaimers by focusing on two speakers arellius fuscus rhetor to ovid and papirius fabianus teacher of the younger seneca a key organizing principle informing both the collection and the practice of declamation was the shared locus a short passage defined by verbal and argumentative ingredients that gained currency among declaimers study of the operation of the shared locus carries several advantages 1 we appreciate distinctions between declaimers 2 we recognize shared passages as a medium of communication and 3 the shared locus emerges as a community resource explaining deep seated connections between declamation and literary works
