this book examines how children s and young adult literature addresses and interrogates the legacies of american school desegregation such literature narrates not only the famous battles to implement desegregation in the south in places like little rock arkansas but also more insidious and less visible legacies such as re segregation within schools through the mechanism of disability diagnosis novelizations of children s experiences with school desegregation comment upon the politics of getting african american children access to white schools but more than this as school stories they also comment upon how structural racism operates in the classroom and mutates over the course of decades through the pedagogical practices depicted in literature for young readers lesley combines approaches from critical race theory disability studies and educational philosophy in order to investigate how the educational market simultaneously constrains how racism in schools can be presented to young readers and also provides channels for radical critiques of pedagogy and visions of alternative systems the volume examines a range of titles from novels that directly engage the brown v board of education decision such as sharon draper s fire from the rock and dorothy sterling s mary jane to novels that engage less obvious legacies of desegregation such as cynthia voigt s dicey s song sharon flake s pinned virginia hamilton s the planet of junior brown and louis sachar s holes this book will be of interest to scholars of american studies children s literature and educational philosophy and history

The Suburb Beyond the Stars (The Norumbegan Quartet, Book 2) 2015

winner of the children s literature association edited book award from the jaded wired teenagers of m t anderson s feed to the spirited young rebels of suzanne collins the hunger games trilogy the protagonists of young adult dystopias are introducing a new generation of readers to the pleasures and challenges of dystopian imaginings as the dark universes of ya dystopias continue to flood the market contemporary dystopian fiction for young adults brave new teenagers offers a critical evaluation of the literary and political potentials of this widespread publishing phenomenon with its capacity to frighten and warn dystopian writing powerfully engages with our pressing global concerns liberty and self determination environmental destruction and looming catastrophe questions of identity and justice and the increasingly fragile boundaries between technology and the self when directed at young readers these dystopian warnings are distilled into exciting adventures with gripping plots and accessible messages that may have the potential to motivate a generation on the cusp of adulthood this collection enacts a lively debate about the goals and efficacy of ya dystopias with three major areas of contention do these texts reinscribe an old didacticism or offer an exciting new frontier in children s literature do their political critiques represent conservative or radical ideologies and finally are these novels high minded attempts to educate the young or simply bids to cash in on a formula for commercial success this collection represents a prismatic and evolving understanding of the genre illuminating its relevance to children s literature and our wider culture
