it is a tribute to the persistence and tenacity of the colonial overlords hailing from a nondescript island of the northwest coast of the vast eurasian landmass that the prevailing paradigm on the origins and chronology of the indic civilization is largely constructed by them this is all the more astonishing when we ponder on the fact that their domination of the subcontinent which had a tradition going back several millennia lasted less than two centuries such a paradigm which we shall define as the colonial paradigm while substantially erroneous is posited on certain assumptions the key assumption is that the indic civilization that remains extant has been brought into the area by migrating races such as the aryaans and in fact some would argue that such a statement holds also for the so called dravidians of india the second assumption implicit in all the assertions made by occidentals about india is that no date for any significant scientific advance should be attributed to the indic prior to the golden age of greece beginning in 600 bce this new series puts people in the world geographic landscape showing students how people are affected by and respond to economic social and political forces at the global and the local scale anglo indians are a mixed race christian and anglophone minority community which arose in south asia during the long period of european colonialism an often neglected part of the british raj their presence complicates the traditional binary through which british imperialism is viewed of ruler and ruled coloniser and colonised the book analyses the processes of ethnic group formation and political organisation beginning with petitions to the east india company state through the raj s constitutional communalism to constitution making for the new india it details how anglo indians sought to preserve protected areas of state and railway employment amidst the growing demands of indian nationalism anglo indians both accomplished nagpra perspectives on the intent impact and future of the native american graves protection vivid and valuable lsquo draft report rsquo asian history the crisis in east pakistan in 1971 which preceded the birth of bangladesh led to ten million refugees crossing the border into india this book argues that this massive influx of refugees within a few short months changed ideas about citizenship and belonging in south asia the book looks at how the indian state while generously keeping its borders open to the refugees made it clear that these refugees were different from those generated by partition and would not be allowed to settle permanently it discusses how the state was breaking its effective link between refugees and citizenship and how at the same time a second affective border was developing between those living in the border areas especially in assam and west bengal moving beyond the refugee narratives created by partition this book argues that these effective and affective borders generated by the refugee crisis in 1971 form part of the longer historical trajectory of the current political debate regarding illegal infiltration from bangladesh it goes on to analyse the aftermath of the 1971 war and the massive repatriation project undertaken by the governments of partition in south asia draws upon new theoretical insights and fresh bodies of data to historically reappraise partition in the light of its long aftermath the academic work titled as south asia security is a honest striving to delve into the notion of security in the south asian region which is under the arc of the indian subcontinent the book objectifies the differentiation between the traditional and convention notions of security which is avowedly power centric with the new tenet of comprehensive human security which entails the concerns of sustainable development human rights gender empowerment along with the notions of globalization and all pervading tenet of interdependence with the advent of neo liberal institutionalism the book aims to posit the traditional bilaterals in the south asian firmament in the larger than life matrix of new age convergence and interdependence first published in 1980 the city in south asia is a collection of papers which were presented at an inter disciplinary seminar on the city in south asia pre modern and modern held at the school of oriental and african studies under the auspices of the centre of south asian studies some of the papers in this volume are comparative others are concerned with specific cities allahabad dacca delhi karachi lucknow and murshidabad they deal with three main themes the city and the state the city and society the city and the surrounding country the book is appropriately embellished with maps and contemporary illustrations and will be of interest to students of history ethnic studies and south asian studies this volume provides multidisciplinary perspectives on nation building in south asia it results from an interchange of views and perspectives between indian and japanese scholars who participated in a conference held at the institute of oriental culture university of tokyo an index of names of persons who are described in various biographical dictionaries this report examines how countries in south asia could capitalize on opportunities to cooperate for closer regional economic direly in terms of lost opportunities for exports the report underscores the prospects available for south asian countries to play a stronger role in broader regionalism in asia pacific as well as discusses the unique role of the united nations economic and social commission for asia and the pacific escap in facilitating that process jamal malik provides new insights into the social and intellectual history of the complex forms of cultural articulation among muslims in south asia from the seventh to twenty first century elaborating on various trends and tendencies in a highly plural setting an insight into the working of central intelligence agency through various reports presented on south asia to top us officials from 1951 to 2001 stephen philip cohen can rightly be called the doyen of south asian security analysis especially traditional security concerns in the region and advocacy on us foreign policy the contributors to the volume have all at different at different points in time been cohen s students and are now well known scholars in their own right broadly dividing cohen s work into categories the contributors deal with the following issues how security is understood and how important strategic relationships are framed approaches to and choices made in the areas of military structure arms production and investment in science and technology how and why civil society groups are mobilized towards political ends specifically looking at ethnic mobilization in diaspora communities non official initiatives for peace in south asia and the role of state and non state actors in disaster management the role of the army the essays reflect a view of security as something people choose to make for themselves through an exercise of agency that is rooted in the realm of ideas south asia is home to more than a billion hindus and half a billion muslims but the region is also home to substantial christian communities some dating almost to the earliest days of the faith the stories of south asia s christians are vital for understanding the shifting contours of world christianity precisely because of their history of interaction with members of these other religious traditions in this broad accessible overview of south asian christianity chandra mallampalli shows how the faith has been shaped by christians location and the hindus and muslims mallampalli begins with a discussion of the future of the native american graves protection persian christians and thrived for centuries alongside their hindu and muslim neighbours he then underscores efforts of roman catholic and protestant missionaries to understand south asian societies for purposes of conversion the publication of books and tracts about other religions interreligious debates and aggressive preaching were central to these endeavours but rarely succeeded at yielding converts instead they played an important role in producing a climate of religious competition which ultimately marginalized christians in hindu muslim and buddhist majority countries of post colonial south asia ironically the greatest response to christianity came from poor and oppressed dalit formerly untouchable and tribal communities who were largely indifferent to missionary rhetoric their mass conversions poetry theology and embrace of pentecostalism are essential for understanding south asian christianity and its place within world christianity today global progress on the sustainable development goals will depend to a large extent on the collective action of south asia to implement them the sub region indeed accounts for almost one fourth of the world s population 36 per cent of the world s poor and nearly half of the world s malnourished children the sub region s success in implementing the 2030 agenda for sustainable development however hinges on addressing current capacity gaps and strengthening the means of implementation recognizing the host of challenges faced by the sub region unescap has attempted in the present report to unpack the 2030 agenda at the sub regional level outlining tangible high priority and relevant policy actions that are critical to achieve sustainable development in south asia the report identifies seven key priorities that can help accelerate the sdg achievement in south asia by leveraging the relationships between the goals based on rigorous policy simulations and evidence it offers insight into ways a regionally coordinated sustainable industrialization strategy could generate more than 56 million new jobs by 2030 in south asia and lift 71 million additional people out of poverty relative to a business as usual scenario it is hoped that this report will be useful for analysts and practitioners in policy in the sub region

Cambridge South Asian Archive; Records of the British Period 1973 offering a comparative case study of transitional justice processes in afghanistan and nepal this book critically evaluates the way the local is consulted in post conflict efforts toward peace and reconciliation it argues that there is a tendency in transitional justice efforts to contain the discussion of the local within religious and cultural parameters thus engaging only with a static local as interpreted by certain local stakeholders based on data collected through interviews and participant observation carried out in the civil societies of the respective countries this book brings attention to a dynamic local where societal norms evolve and realities on the ground are shaped by shifting power dynamics local hierarchies and inequalities between actors it suggests that the local must be understood as an inter subjective concept the meaning of which is not only an evolving and moving target but also dependent on who is consulted to interpret it to external actors this timely book engages with the divergent range of civil society voices and offers ways to move forward by including their concerns in the efforts to help impoverished war torn societies transition from a state of war to the conditions of peace

The Countries of South Asia 1988 south asia is one of the most vulnerable areas of an increasingly disaster impacted world with cyclones earthquakes floods and droughts causing several casualties and disrupting lives and livelihoods every year yet the impacts of disasters are not equally distributed across the peoples of the region women and men experience disaster differently and their needs in the aftermath of disaster often differ bringing together perspectives from academics emergency response specialists and development practitioners the volume investigates to what extent and in what ways gender affects the course of post disaster reconstruction conversely it also explores in what ways gender politics may be altered by disaster and post disaster reconstruction the study includes a comprehensive overview of key issues facing women and men as gendered beings in reconstruction and development a targeted observation of specific south asian disaster contexts and a sustained discussion of case studies and their implications and lessons this book will interest scholars and researchers of disaster management rehabilitation studies gender environment ecology and and advocacy on us foreign policy the contributors to the volume have all at different at different points in time been cohen s students and are now well known scholars in their own right broadly dividing cohen s work into categories the contributors deal with the following issues how security is understood and how important strategic relationships are framed approaches to and choices made in the areas of military structure arms production and investment in science and technology how and why civil society groups are mobilized towards political ends specifically looking at ethnic mobilization in diaspora communities non official initiatives for peace in south asia and the role of state and non state actors in disaster management the role of the army the essays reflect a view of security as something people choose to make for themselves through an exercise of agency that is rooted in the realm of ideas

South Asia Security 2009 south asia is home to more than a billion hindus and half a billion muslims but the region is also home to substantial christian communities some dating almost to the earliest days of the faith the stories of south asia s christians are vital for understanding the shifting contours of world christianity precisely because of their history of interaction with members of these other religious traditions in this broad accessible overview of south asian christianity chandra mallampalli shows how the faith has been shaped by christians location between hindus and muslims mallampalli begins with a discussion of south india s ancient thomas christian tradition which interacted with west asia s persian christians and thrived for centuries alongside their hindu and muslim neighbours he then underscores efforts of roman catholic and protestant missionaries to understand south asian societies for purposes of conversion the publication of books and tracts about other religions interreligious debates and aggressive preaching were central to these endeavours but rarely succeeded at yielding converts instead they played an important role in producing a climate of religious competition which ultimately marginalized christians in hindu muslim and buddhist accomplishing nagpra perspectives on the intent impact and future of the tribal communities who were largely indifferent to missionary rhetoric their mass conversions poetry theology and embrace of pentecostalism are essential for understanding south asian christianity and its place within world christianity today

Authentic Voices of South Asia 2005 global progress on the sustainable development goals will depend to a large extent on the collective action of south asia to implement them the sub region indeed accounts for almost one fourth of the world s population 36 per cent of the world s poor and nearly half of the world s malnourished children the sub region s success in implementing the 2030 agenda for sustainable development however hinges on addressing current capacity gaps and strengthening the means of implementation recognizing the host of challenges faced by the sub region unescap has attempted in the present report to unpack the 2030 agenda at the sub regional level outlining tangible high priority and relevant policy actions that are critical to achieve sustainable development in south asia the report identifies seven key priorities that can help accelerate the sdg achievement in south asia by leveraging the relationships between the goals based on rigorous policy simulations and evidence it offers insight into ways a regionally coordinated sustainable industrialization strategy could generate more than 56 million new jobs by 2030 in south asia and lift 71 million additional people out of poverty relative to a business as usual scenario it is hoped that this report will be useful for analysts and practitioners of development policy in the sub region and beyond in stimulating a debate on the ways and means of bringing sustainable prosperity to all in the dynamic and population subregion of south asia
