ernst troeltsch focuses his protestantism and progress on two main areas first he centers on the intellectual and religious situation from which the significance and the possibilities of development possessed by christianity might be deduced this leads to an engaging historical investigation regarding the spirit of the modern world troeltsch argues that the modern world can only be understood in the light of its relation to earlier epochs of christian civilization in europe he notes that for anyone who holds the opinion that in spite of all the significance that catholicism retains the living possibilities of development and progress are to be found on protestant soil the question regarding the relation of protestantism to modern civilization becomes of central importance troeltsch also distinguishes elements in modern civilization that have proven their value from those which are merely temporary and lead nowhere he gives the religious ideas of christianity a shape and form capable of doing justice to the absoluteness of religious conviction and at the same time considering them in harmony with what has actually been accomplished towards solution of the practical problems of the christian life a new introduction by howard schneiderman brings this monumental work into the twenty first century and explains why its ideas are more important than ever one hundred years after its original publication it is b a gerrish s contention in his overview of protestant ideas gathered together over a number of years that the significance of protestant ideas cannot be appraised historically if luther is made the sole point of reference or if the reformation is treated as something other than a critical moment in a larger historical development to which liberal protestantism also belongs nor he maintains can ideas and doctrines be understood in abstraction from the religious experience they express the old protestantism and the new therefore redresses the present imbalance in historical studies of protestantism by raising questions about the intellectual heritage of the reformers in the modern world gerrish s approach is shaped by three dominant interests luther s relation to other reformers especially calvin the relationship between classical and liberal protestant thought and the patterns of religious experience behind theological formulas the originality of the individual chapters which are written for historians as well as specialists in religious thought is enhanced by the way in which the book as a whole brings together pivotal thinkers including erasmus schleiermacher and barth

there is a fact in existence among civilized nations very important on account of the nature of the things which it affectsÑa fact of transcendent importance on account of the number variety and consequence of its influencesÑa fact extremely interesting because it is connected with the principal events of modern history this fact is protestantism like a clap of thunder it attracted at once the attention of all europe on one side it spread alarm and on the other excited the most lively sympathy it grew so rapidly that its adversaries had not time to strangle it in its cradle scarcely had it begun to exist and already all hope of stopping or even restraining it was gone when emboldened by being treated with respect and consideration it became every day more daring if exasperated by rigour it openly resisted measures of coercion or redoubled and concentrated its forces to make more vigorous attacks discussions the

over the last twenty years incredible changes have taken place in the presbyterian church of brazil in 1959 on the occasion of its centennial celebrations this church was acclaimed as the outstanding success story of protestantism in latin america it was hailed for its vitality and for the role it seemed destined to play in the life of that nation today after fifteen years of domination by a small group of reactionary leaders it has been decimated the word presbyterian now calls to mind the destructiveness of religious fanaticism and repression in protestantism and repression rubem alves wrestles with the questions why did all this happen what is there in the structure and logic of what he calls right doctrine protestantism that leads to repression under certain historical conditions his analysis is thorough his insights profound his conclusions astonishing i urge you to read this book whether you fear that our religious institutions are moving toward repression or are convinced that it can t happen here richard shaull from the foreword an outstanding and internationally recognized third world theologian rubem alves has in protestantism and repression moved from the devastating analysis of the consumer society articulated in a theology of human hope and tomorrow s child to a partly autobiographical critique of the presbyterian church of brazil a church in which his roots are deeply imbedded alves rigorously documents the transformation of presbyterianism in brazil from a liberating force to a bulwark of oppression and repression and he convincingly establishes as the cause of this deterioration what he calls the spirit of the right doctrine protestantism a socially conditioned neofundamentalism that arrogates to itself absolute knowledge and absolute power as richard shaull stresses in an excellent and most informative foreword what has happened in brazil could happen to north american protestantism but the lesson is not only for protestants the basic issues as defined by alves are equally pertinent for roman catholics both in latin america and in the unites states gary maceoin rubem alves was educated at the campinas presbyterian seminary in brazil union theological seminary new york and princeton theological seminary a presbyterian minister and professor at the university of campinas in brazil alves is the author of what is religion

Protestantism and Catholicism, in Their Bearing Upon the Liberty and Prosperity of Nations. A Study of Social Economy 1875

the following lectures present in a brief and popular form the argument against protestantism drawn from its use of the holy scriptures they are a continuation of former discourses upon the nature and results of the protestant reformation wherever you approach error you find contradictions and inconsistency the houses of heretics and schismatics are divided against themselves and built upon either absolute falsehood or the perversion of truth the children of protestant parents are fast going away from every species of dogmatism and the different sects are losing not only unity of faith but also the conviction of the necessity of a creed liberalism or freedom of thought in matters of revelation is the characteristic of our times no article of faith is made the condition of church membership or even of the exercise of the ministry creeds must grow with the progress of science and men must be left free to embrace new views as day unto day brings more light and widens the circle of knowledge yet there are among the many to whom the catholic truth is unknown those who can never relinquish the associations of childhood nor all the truths of christianity they cling to their bibles which they have received as the oracles of god and the words of christ to a fallen world they identify their interpretations of the inspired scriptures with all that they have of religion and with all their hopes of a future life we would not for one moment judge their consciences but for the reason that we believe in their sincerity we would press upon them the discharge of a duty from which they cannot be excused they are bound to examine well the grounds of most non catholic christians are not aware of the protestant reformation movement of the 16th 17th and 18th centuries without which we would have no choice even today but to be catholics does this sound strange to you if you re protestant that s because many protestant pastors are not teaching their flocks about this christian world changing event pastors may also know little about it their selves i honor the right of people in catholicism to practice their religion because as a usa citizen it is my constitutional duty but protestants can still strongly disagree with many of their interpretations on doctrines of the holy bible these include paying money to the catholic church to get loved ones out of purgatory a place in between heaven and hell praying to saints and to mary who we love dearly rather than to the father through jesus christ belief that with the partaking of communion eucharist the bread and wine become the literal body and blood of jesus christ transubstantiation etc still it is our duty to honor their rights of beliefs because we also have those rights as protestants we all of course do not have to honor hostile violent religious movements because this is an abuse of religious rights protestantism and catholicism are not still at war but during the 16th 17th and part of the 18th centuries there were over 10 million deaths that resulted as a result of the protestant reformation movement a people called huguenots who were french protested the coerced enforcement of catholicism as did followers of martin luther referred to as lutherans my family tree books show that my own ancestors were huguenot french protestants as does my dna testing the national huguenot society also lists my ancestor a man named johannes lorentz who with his wife anna margaretha heiliger immigrated to holland and from there to the usa learn more about the protestant reformation movement in this 5 940 word book table of contents introduction chapter one a worldwide ethnoreligious event chapter two forefathers of the huguenots chapter three treaties that granted freedom and rights to protestants chapter four protestant beliefs including those in contrast to

this is an important and interesting book on aspects of our religious heritage which until now have escaped the investigation of scholars history is all too often employed as a weapon for smiting the infidel so it was among religiously minded people in 19th century england by the beginning of the victorian era after the somnolence of the 18th century religious enthusiasm among both clergy and laity in the established church revived this brought about such acrimonious differences it was a wonder they could be accommodated in the same church provoked by a group of oxford scholars who sought to show that the church of england was neither roman catholic nor protestant but a middle way between the two protestant militants were aroused to demonstrate against and even disrupt church services of which they disapproved to remind english men and women of the glories of the reformation they erected memorials in many towns to celebrate the heroic reputation of the martyrs who suffered in the reign of bloody mary memorials required names and to find out who the victims were and where they met their end the memorial committees turned to the pages of john foxe s acts and monuments of the christian martyrs better known as foxe s book of martyrs a most effective work of propaganda in the days of religious warfare it was reprinted in new editions now the target was no longer the church of rome but the anglo catholics or the alleged romanisers a perplexing problem for the historian is what the protestant martyrs actually believed it is clearly naive to suppose that they died for 19th century parliamentary democracy and liberties foxe s criterion of protestant martyrdom was hatred of rome and in his anxiety to drum up the numbers he was reticent about or ignorant of the widely varying beliefs of his martyrs the assumption of the 19th century protestants was that the english people rose as one to reject popery but it is impossible to accurately assess the support for state imposed religious change surviving evidence as the preamble to wills seems to suggest that people for the most part simply acquiesced in what the government of the day decided was the true religion
