in spain on may 15 2011 a movement against austerity measures began in a time when representative democracies were under threat 15m came to life as a virtuous and democratic response to the slide into far right populism and authoritarianism more than a social movement 15m became a mode of being with transformative democratizing potential in democracy here and now pablo ouziel offers a grounded analysis of 15m at the time of the movement and during the ensuing encampments ouziel travelled extensively speaking to participants and keeping an ongoing record of his conversations presenting an original participatory mode of research the book reveals six types of intersubjective joining hands relationships that 15m has brought into being and works to carry on in creative ways the book shows how the movement s way of being and temporality persists in spain following the square occupations while 15m citizens continue to learn and move forward in less perceptible ways democracy here and now sheds light on a deeply relational intersectional and eco social mode of democracy and shows how 15m s ongoing democratization practices are exemplary of similar grassroots movements around the world broadening our understandings of what it means to be democratic in the here and now this book analyses the way in which international human rights law ihrl and international investment law iil are deployed or fail to be deployed in conflict countries within the context of natural resources extraction it specifically analyses the way in which iil protections impact on the parallel protection of economic social and cultural rights esc rights in the host state especially the right to water arguing that current responses have been unsatisfactory it considers the emergence of the protect respect and remedy framework and the guiding principles for business and human rights jointly the framework as a possible analytical instrument in so doing it proposes a different approach to the way in which the framework is generally interpreted and then investigates the possible applicability of this recalibrated framework to the study of the ihrl iil interplay in a host country in a protracted armed conflict afghanistan through the emblematic example of afghanistan the book presents a practical dimension to its legal analysis it uniquely portrays the elusive intersection between these two bodies of international law within a host country where the armed conflict continues to rage and a full economic restructuring is taking place away from the public eye not least through the deployment of iil and the inaction or merely partial consideration of ihrl the book will be of interest to academics policy makers and practitioners of international organisations involved in ihrl iil and or deployed in contexts of armed conflict countries rarely disappear off the map in the 20th century only a few countries shared this fate with Yugoslavia. The dissolution of Yugoslavia led to the largest war in Europe since 1945, massive human rights violations and over 100,000 victims. Debating the end of Yugoslavia is less an attempt to re-write the dissolution of Yugoslavia or to provide a different narrative than to take stock and reflect on the scholarship to date. New sources and data offer fresh avenues of research, avoiding the passion of the moment that often characterized research published during the wars and provide contemporary perspectives on the dissolution. The book outlines the state of the debate rather than focusing on controversies alone and maps how different scholarly communities have reflected on the dissolution of the country, what arguments remain open in scholarly discourse and highlights new innovative paths to study the period.

The goal of a high quality, cost-effective and accessible health care for patients is achieved through constructing a team-based and patient-centered health care delivery system. The expanded role of pharmacists uplifts them to patient care from dispensing and manufacturing or marketing of drugs along with doctors and allied health professionals. Pharmacists are increasingly recognized as an integral part of the patient care team. Furthermore, colleges of pharmacy need to revise and update their curricula to accommodate the progressively increasing development in the pharmaceutical education and the evolving new roles of practicing pharmacists in patient care settings. This book focuses on the expanded role of the pharmacists in total patient care, including prescribing, dispensing, compounding, administering and monitoring of drugs at home, hospital, community, hospice, critical care, changeover and other care settings. The sector is emerging in both developed and underdeveloped countries, overburdened by patient loads and the explosion of new drugs. Physicians turned to pharmacists more and more for drug information, especially within institutional settings. Today's patient care pharmacists are taking more interests in medication review and reconciliation, patient education and counseling, creating drug therapy regimen and monitoring compliance. The purpose of this book is to guide the pharmacists in their daily interactions with patients and to ensure collaboration with other health professionals. The contents are mostly based on recently published articles related to patient care with most recent ideas and activities followed by the patient care pharmacists around the globe. However, a pharmacist implements the care plan in collaboration with other health care professionals and the patient or caregiver along with professional guidelines. The book discusses the concepts and best practices of patient interaction, patient rights and ethical decision making for the professional pharmacist apprentice and student. In every chapter, the role of pharmacists in that chapter-specific issues are detailed explicitly so that a professional pharmacist or a student can figure out his or her do's and don'ts in that specific situation. Moreover, further reading references are listed as future recommendations, so the book is an archive of potential references too among so many books about patient care either doctors or nurses roles are highlighted the proposed book highlights the pharmacists roles and responsibilities to the most separated from those of doctors and nurses with the most recent information obtained from most publications in several journals books bulletins newsletter magazines etc the volume ii is entitled neurostimulation and pharmacological approaches this volume describes augmentation approaches where improvements in brain functions are achieved by modulation of brain circuits with electrical or optical stimulation or pharmacological agents activation of brain circuits with electrical currents is a conventional approach that includes such methods as i intracortical microstimulation icms ii transcranial direct current stimulation tdc and iii transcranial magnetic stimulation tms tdc and tms are often regarded as noninvasive methods yet they may induce long lasting plastic changes in the brain this is why some authors consider the term noninvasive misleading when used to describe these and other techniques such as stimulation with transcranial lasers the volume further discusses the potential of neurostimulation as a research tool in the studies of perception cognition and behavior additionally a notion is expressed that brain augmentation with stimulation cannot be described as a net zero sum proposition where brain resources are reallocated in such a way that gains in one function are balanced by costs elsewhere in recent years optogenetic methods have received an increased attention and several articles in volume ii cover different aspects of this technique while new optogenetic methods are being developed the classical electrical stimulation has already been utilized in many clinically relevant applications like the vestibular implant and tactile neuroprosthesis that utilizes icms as a peculiar usage of neurostimulation and pharmacological methods volume ii includes several articles on augmented memory memory prostheses are a popular recent development in the stimulation based bmis for example in a hippocampal memory prosthesis memory content is extracted from hippocampal activity using a multiple input multiple output non linear dynamical model as to the pharmacological approaches to augmenting memory and cognition the pros and cons of using nootropic drugs are discussed
