jane mansbridge in my very first class i found that there d been a group of six students i found this out after the class was over who had gotten together and created a prize for the person who asked the most questions to which i said well no laughter one of them had said that she just adored the way i said no

here s what to do next when students give wrong answers

one solution is to ask more open ended questions which make students think about the topic without putting them on the spot in situations where the goal is to see if students have learned specific facts so quizzing them on these facts is the best way to find out jolles suggests asking for volunteers rather than putting one student on the while next has cited multiple factors for these numbers it s likely that interruptions caused by covid such as temporary closings of schools and drastic alterations in school life have been a driving factor in causing many children to feel unmotivated to study
