how should constitutional design respond to the opportunities and challenges raised by ethnic linguistic religious and cultural differences and do so in ways that promote democracy social justice peace and stability this is one of the most difficult questions facing societies in the world today there are two schools of thought on how to answer this question under the heading of accommodation some have argued for the need to recognize institutionalize and empower differences there are a range of constitutional instruments available to achieve this goal such as multinational federalism and administrative decentralization legal pluralism e g religious personal law other forms of non territorial minority rights e g minority language and religious education rights consociationalism affirmative action legislative quotas etc but others have countered that such practices may entrench perpetuate and exacerbate the very divisions they are designed to manage they propose a range of alternative strategies that fall under the rubric of integration that will blur transcend and cross cut differences such strategies include bills of rights enshrining universal human rights enforced by judicial review policies of disestablishment religious and ethnocultural federalism and electoral systems designed specifically to include members of different groups within the same political unit and to disperse members of the same group across different units are some examples in this volume leading scholars of constitutional law comparative politics and political theory address the debate at a conceptual level as well as through numerous country case studies through an interdisciplinary lens but with a legal and institutional focus the responsibility to protect r2p is intended to provide an effective framework for responding to crimes of genocide ethnic cleansing war crimes and crimes against humanity it is a response to the many conscious shocking cases where atrocities on the worst scale have occurred even during the post 1945 period when the united nations was built to save us all from the scourge of genocide the r2p concept accords to sovereign states and international institutions a responsibility to assist peoples who are at risk or experiencing the worst atrocities r2p maintains that collective action should be taken by members of the united nations to prevent or halt such gross violations of basic human rights this handbook containing contributions from leading theorists and practitioners including former foreign ministers and special advisors examines the progress that has been made in the last 10 years it also looks forward to likely developments in the next decade
