emile durkheim often called the father of sociology believed that society is composed of structures that function together and that society has a structure of its own apart from the individuals within it durkheim thus identifies a broad range of social facts that correspond roughly with his intellectual development in his early work he focuses on social morphology he then wrote a book on suicide while his late work concentrates on social norms and values seen especially in morality and religion Émile durkheim born april 15 1858 Épinal france died november 15 1917 paris was a french social scientist who developed a vigorous methodology combining empirical research with sociological theory he is widely regarded as the founder of the french school of sociology durkheim argued that social facts have sui generis an independent existence greater and more objective than the actions of the individuals that compose society only such social facts can explain the observed social phenomena according to durkheim the collective consciousness is formed through social interactions in particular durkheim thought of the close knit interactions between families and small communities groups of people who share a common religion who may eat together work together and spend leisure time together it will be demonstrated that from durkheim s perspective change in the social structures through which individuals associate affects the faculty of reason and the formation of collective consciousness and thus the moral and normative regulation of social action get full access to this article durkheim s notion of society as determining the cognitive operations of its members makes the individual mind wholly dependent on its social environment however far durkheim s unitary and functional notion of the social is from that descriptive and pluralistic of clifford geertz archly noted by cosmides and tooby for his it is true that durkheim gradually moved away from the word solidarity probably due to its massive use outside social science and the thinker s unwillingness to become a victim of the idols of the marketplace or those of the theatre summary if durkheim s concept of social facts is as i have presented it here as one which can only properly be understood in terms of a kantian concept of social phenomena why did not durkheim present his own argument in this way and in short simply call social facts social phenomena durkheim has a very specific sense of association which is evident from his earliest texts onwards more than that it is closely tied to the notion of obligation hence the fact of association is the most obligatory of all because it is the origin of all other obligations in the rules of sociological method durkheim attempted to provide methodological rules and guidance for establishing social facts and how they are related to one another durkheim s sociology focused on how morality emerged from social interaction rather than from an external deity he followed in the footsteps of charles renouvier one of the main influences on the french republican tradition in 1893 durkheim published his first major work the division of labor in society in which he introduced the concept of anomie or the breakdown of the influence of social norms on individuals within a society david Émile durkheim april 15 1858 november 15 1917 is known as one of the originators of modern sociology he founded the first european university department of sociology in 1895 and one of the first journals devoted to social science l année sociologique in 1896 this paper offers a new interpretation of Émile durkheim s the elementary forms of religious life 1912 as the basis for reconsidering the tarde durkheim debate of 1903 and the distinctions between a theory of social force and a theory of social assemblage durkheim s concept of social solidarity is a key component of his theory of social order he argued that social solidarity is necessary for the functioning of society as it provides individuals with a sense of connection and belonging that allows them to work together towards common goals in the present paper we study the social context of adolescent delinquency in order to examine durkheim s theory of social order we use survey data on urban adolescents in iceland that allow us to examine key theoretical constructs on both the community and the individual levels of analysis for durkheim the education system performs the secondary socialisation role by instilling social solidarity by learning about history children learn to see themselves as part of a bigger picture and people should work together for common goals social solidarity is the cementing force that helps in reducing the social distance that is increasing between people during this pandemic we explore emile durkheim s theory of social solidarity in context of the covid 19 crisis demonstrating cases from the indian scenario rethinking the social is the first book to systematically analyse the different concepts of the social developed by durkheim marx and weber it examines how the concept of the social became unproblematic for twentieth century writers and suggests that debates surrounding this concept remain very much alive
