august 19 1958 clara lupercus and thirteen black youth walked into katz drug store in oklahoma city and sat down at the lunch counter when they tried to order they were denied service as they sat in silence refusing to leave the surrounding white customers unleashed a torrent of threats and racial slurs this first organized sit in in oklahoma almost two years before the more famous sit ins in greensboro north carolina sparked other demonstrations in oklahoma and other states behold the walls is lupercus s engrossing firsthand account of how the movement she helped launch ended legal racial segregation first published in 1979 behold the walls now features a new introduction and 33 newly selected historical photos lupercus s direct unvarnished account captures the immediacy of the events she witnessed as a black woman lupercus refused to let either racism or sexism deter her from stepping forth as a leader born in 1923 Clara Luper taught history in Oklahoma public schools and led the NAACP youth council the students who sat in at Katz Drug and other businesses belonged to that organization Luper highlights the contributions of others especially young people in breaking down the walls of segregation in Oklahoma through numerous demonstrations marches and voter registration campaigns this commemorative edition of Luper's eye-opening autobiography published near what would have been her 100th birthday as well as the 65th anniversary of the sit-ins offers invaluable insight into the history of protest in the early years of the civil rights movement with racial inequality still at the forefront of national debate behold the walls places highland Bolivia this book is the first ethnography to focus both on the evangelizers and the evangelized elucidating the workings of that original global institution the Catholic Church Andrew Orta explores the pastoral shift away from liberation theology that dominated Latin American missionization up until the mid-1980s to the recent theology of inculturation voices from the global margin looks behind the generalities of debates about globalization to explore the personal impact of global forces on the Peruvian poor in this highly readable ethnography William Mitchell draws on the narratives of people he has known for forty years offering deep insight into how they have coped with extreme poverty and rapid population growth and their creation of new lives and customs in the process in their own passionate words they describe their struggles to make ends meet many abandoning rural homes for marginal wages in Lima and the United States they chronicle their terror during the shining path guerrilla war and the government's violent military response Mitchell's long experience as an anthropologist living with the people he writes about allows him to put the stories in context helping readers understand the impact of the larger world on individuals and their communities his book reckons up the human costs of the global economy urging us to work toward a more just
