law research students often begin their phds without having an awareness of methodology or the opportunity to think about the practice of research and its theoretical implications law schools are however increasingly alive to the need to provide training in research methods to their students they are also alive to the need to develop the research capacities of their early career scholars not least for the research excellence framework exercise this book offers a structured approach to doing so focusing on issues of methodology ie the theoretical elements of research within the context of eu and international law the book can be used alone or could form the basis of a seminar based course or a departmental or even regional discussion group at the core of the book are the materials produced for a series of workshops funded by the arts humanities research council s collaborative doctoral training fund on legal research methodologies in eu and international law these materials consist of a document with readings on main and less mainstream methodological approaches what we call modern and critical approaches and the law and approaches to research in eu and international law and a series of questions and exercises which encourage reflection on those readings both in their own terms and in terms of different research agendas there are also supporting materials giving guidance on practical matters such as how to give a paper or be a discussant at an academic conference the basic aim of the book is to help scholars in eu and international law reflect on their research where does it fit within the discipline what kinds of research questions they think interesting how do they pursue them what theoretical perspective best supports their way of thinking their project and so on the book is aimed both at phd students and early career scholars in eu and international law and also at more established scholars who are interested in reflecting on the development of their discipline as well as supervising research projects

Studies in the History of American Law 1930

until now there has been no summary or overview of the wide range of work contributing to critical legal studies the movement that has aroused such a furor in the communities of law and political philosophy this book outlines and evaluates the principal strands of critical legal studies and achieves much more as well a good deal of the writing in critical legal studies has been devoted to laying bare the contradictions in liberal thought there have been attacks and counterattacks on the liberal position and on the more conservative law and economics position now mark kelman demonstrates that any critique of law and economics is inextricably tied to a broader critique of liberalism there are three central contradictions in liberal thought between a commitment to mechanically applicable rules and to standards that fluctuate with situations between intrinsic individual values and the objective knowledge of ethical truths and between free will and determinism kelman shows us the pervasiveness of these contradictions in legal doctrine their connection to broader political theory and to visions of human nature and finally the degree to which mainstream thought tends to privilege certain of these commitments over others the author also analyzes two of the most significant components of jurisprudence today the law and economics discipline and the legal process school he concludes with a lively discussion of the role of law generally and of cognitive legitimation or the ways in which legal thought can make the unnecessary the contingent and the unjust seem natural inevitable and fair
