Truck Drivers and Fatigue 2014-01-01 the objective of this book is to examine the efficacy of the new restart rule promulgated as part of the hours of service of drivers final rule under the new restart rule if commercial motor vehicle cmv drivers choose to use a provision allowing restart of the 60 or 70 hour duty cycle limit they are required to include at least two nighttime periods from 1 a m until 5 a m based on the home terminal time zone if the restart takes place in a time zone that differs from the drivers home terminal in their restart breaks to allow sufficient opportunity for sleep recuperation before beginning another duty cycle to investigate the efficacy of this new rule a naturalistic field study was conducted before the compliance date to assess fatigue in drivers working their normal schedules and performing their normal duties during this study researchers performed a comparison of driver fatigue between duty cycles preceded by a restart break with only one nighttime period versus duty cycles preceded by a restart break with two or more nighttime periods this book discusses the findings of this study
