those who saw donald trump as a novel threat looming over american democracy and now think the danger has passed may not have been paying much attention to the political developments of the past several decades trump was merely the most recent and will surely not be the last in a long line of presidents who expanded the powers of the office and did not hesitate to act unilaterally when so doing served their purposes unfortunately trump is also unlikely to be the last president prepared to do away with his enemies in the congress and transform the imperial presidency from a theory to a reality though presidents are elected more or less democratically the presidency is not and was never intended to be a democratic institution the framers thought that america would be governed by its representative assembly the congress of the united states presidential power like a dangerous pharmaceutical might have been labelled to be used only when needed today congress sporadically engages in law making but the president actually governs congress has become more an inquisitorial than a legislative body presidents rule through edicts while their opponents in the congress counter with the threat of impeachment an action that amounts to a political albeit nonviolent coup the courts sputter and fume but generally back the president this is the new separation of powers the president exercises power and the other branches are separated from it where will this end regardless of who occupies the oval office the imperial presidency is inexorably bringing down the curtain on american representative democracy missouri was one of many states that established a defense organization to take over the duties of the national guard that had been federalized for military service when the united states declared war on germany in 1917 the tasks of this volunteer home guard included traditional national guard responsibilities such as providing introductory military training for draftable men protecting crucial infrastructure from potential enemy activities and maintaining law and order during labor activism the home guard also functioned to preserve patriotism and reduce opposition to the war service in the guard was a way to show loyalty to one's country particularly for german americans who were frequently under suspicion as untrustworthy many german americans in missouri enthusiastically signed up to dispel any whispers of treason while others found themselves torn between the motherland and their new homeland men too old or exempt from the draft for other reasons found meaning in helping with the war effort through the home guard while also garnering respect from the community for similar reasons women attempted to join the organization as did african americans some of whom formed units of a negro home guard informed by the dynamics of race gender and ethnicity dewitt's consideration of this understudied but important organization examines the fluctuating definition of patriotism and the very real question of who did and who did not have the privilege of citizenship and acceptance in society
