the good ship sped on her way across the calm atlantic it was an outward passage according to the little charts which the company had charily distributed but most of the passengers were homeward bound after a summer of rest and recreation and they were counting the days before they might hope to see fire island light on the lee side of the boat comfortably sheltered from the wind and just by the door of the captain's room which was theirs during the day sat a little group of returning americans the duchess she was down on the purser's list as mrs martin but her friends and familiars called her the duchess of washington square and baby van rensse-laer she was quite old enough to vote had her sex been entitled to that duty but as the younger of two sisters she was still the baby of the family the duchess and baby van rensse-laer were discussing the pleasant english voice and the not unpleasant english accent of a manly young lordling who was going to america for sport uncle larry and dear jones were enticing each other into a bet on the ship's run of the morrow i'll give you two to one she don't make 420 said dear jones i'll take it answered uncle larry we made 427 the fifth day last year it was uncle larry's seventeenth visit to europe and this was therefore his thirty fourth voyage and when did you get in asked baby van rensse-laer i don't care a bit about the run so long as we get in soon we crossed the bar sunday night just seven days after we left queenstown and we dropped anchor off quarantine at three o'clock on monday morning i hope we sha'n't do that this time i can't seem to sleep any when the boat stops i can but i didn't continued uncle larry because my stateroom was the most forward in the boat and the donkey engine that let down the anchor was right over my head so you got up and saw the sun rise over the bay said dear jones with the electric lights of the city twinkling in the distance and the first faint flush of the dawn in the east just over fort lafayette and the rosy tinge which spread softly upward and
