because of the increasing use of unmanned aerial vehicles uavs also commonly known as drones in various military and para military i e cia settings there has been increasing debate in the international community as to whether it is morally and ethically permissible to allow robots flying or otherwise the ability to decide when and where to take human life in addition there has been intense debate as to the legal aspects particularly from a humanitarian law framework in response to this growing international debate the united states government released the department of defense dod 3000 09 directive 2011 which sets a policy for if and when autonomous weapons would be used in us military and para military engagements this us policy asserts that only human supervised autonomous weapon systems may be used to select and engage targets with the exception of selecting humans as targets for local defense this statement implies that outside of defensive applications autonomous weapons will not be allowed to independently select and then fire upon targets without explicit approval from a human supervising the autonomous weapon system such a control architecture is known as human supervisory control where a human remotely supervises an automated system sheridan 1992 the defense caveat in this policy is needed because the united states currently uses highly automated systems for defensive purposes e g counter rocket artillery and mortar c ram systems and patriot anti missile missiles due to the time critical nature of such environments e g soldiers sleeping in barracks within easy reach of insurgent shoulder launched missiles these automated defensive systems cannot rely upon a human supervisor for permission because of the short engagement times and the inherent human neuromuscular lag which means that even if a person is paying attention there is approximately a half second delay in hitting a firing button which can mean the difference for life and death for the soldiers in the barracks so as of now no us uav or any robot will be able to launch any kind of weapon in an offensive environment without human direction and approval however the 3000 09 directive does contain a clause that allows for this possibility in the future this caveat states that the development of a weapon system that independently decides to launch a weapon is possible but first must be approved by the under secretary of defense for policy usd p the under secretary of defense for acquisition technology and logistics usd at l and the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff not all stakeholders are happy with this policy that leaves the door open for what used to be considered science fiction many opponents of such uses of technologies call for either an outright ban on autonomous weaponized systems or in some cases autonomous systems in general human rights watch 2013 future of life institute 2015 chairperson of the informal meeting of experts 2016 such groups take the position that weapons systems should always be under meaningful human control but do not give a precise definition of what this means one issue in this debate that often is overlooked is that autonomy is not a discrete state rather it is a continuum and various weapons with different levels of autonomy have been in the us inventory for some time because of these ambiguities it is often hard to draw the line between automated and autonomous systems present day uavs use the very same guidance navigation and control technology flown on commercial aircraft tomahawk missiles which have been in the us inventory for more than 30 years are highly automated weapons with accuracies of less than a meter these offensive missiles can navigate by themselves with no gps thus exhibiting some autonomy by today s definitions global hawk uavs can find their way home and land on their own without any human intervention in the case of a communication failure the growth of the civilian uav market is also a critical consideration in the debate as to whether these technologies should be banned outright there is a 144 38b industry emerging for the commercial use of drones in agricultural settings cargo delivery first response commercial photography and the entertainment industry adroit market research 2019 more than 100 billion has been spent on driverless car development eisenstein 2018 in the past 10 years and the autonomy used in driverless cars mirrors that inside autonomous weapons so it is an important distinction that uavs are simply the platform for weapon delivery autonomous or conventional and that autonomous systems have many peaceful and commercial uses independent of military applications india's real gdp growth slipped substantially after the north atlantic financial crisis return to a sustained high growth trajectory is feasible but it will need much more focused attention to the revival of manufacturing and to the acceleration of investment in transport and infrastructure the immediate priority is to achieve the kind of fiscal quality and low inflation levels exhibited during 2003-08 with focused attention to increasing efficiency and compliance in tax revenue collection higher tax revenues can facilitate increases in public investment which then crowd in private investment the task ahead will be more difficult in view of the protracted slowdown in global growth and trade

This paper discusses the status of Chad under enhanced heavily indebted poor countries (HIPC) initiative and multilateral debt relief initiative (MDRI). Chad does not qualify for topping up under the enhanced HIPC initiative based on end 2013 debt data. Creditors accounting for more than 87 percent of total HIPC eligible debt have given satisfactory assurances of their participation in the enhanced HIPC initiative. Nearly all multilateral creditors and Paris Club creditors have agreed to participate. The authorities are working toward obtaining participation of all the remaining creditors upon reaching the completion point under the enhanced HIPC initiative. Chad will also qualify for additional debt relief under the MDRI.

Rapid structural transformation and urbanization are transforming agriculture and food production in rural areas across the world. This textbook provides a comprehensive review and assessment of the multi-faceted nature of agriculture and rural development particularly in the developing world where the greatest challenges occur. It is designed around five thematic parts: agricultural intensification and technical change, political economy of agricultural policies, community and rural institutions, agriculture, nutrition and health, and future relevance of international institutions. Each chapter presents a detailed but accessible review of the literature on the specific topic and discusses the frontiers in research and institutional changes needed as societies adapt to the transformation processes. All authors are eminent scholars with international reputations who have been actively engaged in the contemporary debates around agricultural development and rural transformation.

Beginning in the mid-nineteenth century when Korea became entangled in the world of modern imperialism and the old social, economic, and political order began to change, this handbook brings together cutting-edge scholarship on major themes in Korean history. Contributions by experts in the field cover the late Choson and colonial periods, Korea's partition and the diverging paths of North and South Korea. Topics covered include the division of Korea, religion, competing imperialisms, economic change, war and rebellions, nationalism, gender, North Korea under Kim Jong-il, and global Korea. The handbook provides a stimulating introduction to the most important themes within the subject area and is an invaluable reference work for any student and researcher of Korean history.
