in this labs you will make two types of plots an absorbance spectrum and a beer s law plot the former can be used for qualitative analysis and help identify the identity of an unknown and the former can be used for quantitative analysis and identify the concentration of an unknown absorbance

~~experiment 7 spectroscopy introduction~~ spectroscopy is defined as a process and lab technique that allows us to obtain a spectrum a graph depicting the intensity of a certain signal or physical process at different wavelengths or energies

Feb 15 2024

in this activity we will use a spectrometer or diffraction gratings mounted in a particular way in a snazzy box to observe light from various gases prior to observing these gases it is important to realize how different types of spectra are created experiment 6 intro to spectroscopy about studocu

Jan 14 2024

the lab techniques used for this experiment were to dilute the sports drink into different concentraons to use a spectrometer and to create an absorpon vs concentraon plot using the data recollected from the measurenet data collecon system
