hill book two of the travellers trilogy you can t beat against the force of the wind forever sometimes you must just run before the gale even though it may end in shipwreck storms of the indian ocean course up the coast of western australia in winter saltwater sailor and master mariner gretta finneson is on a desperate solo voyage in vagabond a vintage racing yacht she must complete the passage to save a dolphin and whale watch charter in the pristine wildlife sanctuary at shark bay from development and destruction by powerful chance syndicates time and the odds are against her the freedom of those who travel these trackless horizons of windswept oceans and the lonely outback is endangered and it seems that failure is inevitable fellow traveller landscape artist aidan randell cannot help her for he is tied to the fragile musician zelina who is beset by floods and bushfires in her southern forest sanctuary adventurer poet and artist m a hill is a unique voice in australian literature and she tells a powerful story that mirrors the relentless battle for the survival of our world s wild places as the plot unravels in this second novel of the travellers trilogy the diverse characters populate a landscape that is at once original yet familiar the first novel trackless a journey that follows no trails was praised as a compelling read cockburn gazette a work of sheer literary genius and one of the best books i ve ever read the final tale setback a passage through the dark will be released soon if you read tim winton you will enjoy the work of m a hill her prose is lyrical and her storytelling overlays many dimensions of reality a voyage in a balloon is an adventure short story by jules verne it was included in doctor ox the only collection of jules verne s short stories published during verne s lifetime just as the narrator starts the ascent of his balloon a stranger jumps into its car the unexpected passenger s only intent is to take the balloon as high as it will go even at the cost of his and pilot s life the intruder takes advantage of the long journey to recount the history of incidents related to the epic of lighter than air travel this short story foreshadows verne s first novel five weeks in a balloon reproduction of the original a voyage to terra australis by matthew flinders an extraordinary story of bravery and insanity on the high seas one of the most gripping sea stories i have ever read sebastian junger author of the perfect storm in the tradition of into thin air and the perfect storm comes a breathtaking oceanic adventure about an obsessive desire to test the limits of human endurance in 1968 nine sailors set off on the most daring race ever held and never before completed to single handedly circumnavigate the globe nonstop ten months later only one of the nine men would cross the finish line and earn fame wealth and glory for the others the reward was madness failure and death gorgeously written and meticulously researched by author peter nichols this extraordinary book chronicles the contest of the individual against the sea waged at a time before cell phones satellite dishes and electronic positioning systems a voyage for madmen is a tale of sailors driven by their own dreams and demons of horrific storms and of those

chapter i farewell to old england masts spires and strand receding on the right the glorious main expanding on the bow at noon on july 1st 1876 we said good bye to the friends who had come to chatham to see us off and began the first stage of our voyage by steaming down to sheerness saluting our old friend the duncan admiral chads's flagship and passing through a perfect fleet of craft of all kinds there was a fresh contrary wind and the channel was as disagreeable as usual under the circumstances next afternoon we were off hastings where we had intended to stop and dine and meet some friends but unfortunately the weather was not sufficiently favourable for us to land so we made a long tack out to sea and in the evening found ourselves once more near the land off beachy head while becalmed off brighton we all children included availed ourselves of the opportunity to go overboard and have our first swim which we thoroughly enjoyed we had steam up before ten and again proceeded on our course it was very hot and sitting under the awning turned out to be the pleasantest occupation the contrast between the weather of the two following days was very great and afforded a forcible illustration of the uncertainties perhaps the fascinations of yachting we steamed quietly on past the owers lightship and the crowds of yachts at ryde and dropped anchor off cowes at six o'clock on the morning of the 6th a light breeze sprang up and enabled us to go through the needles with sails up and funnel down a performance of which all on board felt very proud as many yachtsmen had pronounced it to be an impossibility for our vessel to beat out in so light a breeze we were forty three on board all told as will be seen by reference to the list i have given we had with us besides two dogs three birds and a charming persian kitten belonging to the baby the kitten soon disappeared and it was feared she must have gone overboard down the hawse pipe there was a faint hope however that she might have been packed away with the new sails which had been stowed in a great hurry the day before unhappily she was never found again and the children were inconsolable until they discovered at torquay an effective substitute for lily the channel was tolerably smooth outside the isle of wight and during the afternoon we were able to hold on our course direct for ushant after midnight however the wind worked gradually round to the w s w and blew directly in our teeth a terribly heavy sea got up and as we were making little or no progress it was decided to put in to torquay or dartmouth and there await a change we anchored in torbay about half a mile from the pier at 8 30 a m and soon afterwards went ashore to bathe we found however that the high rocks which surround the snug little bathing cove made the water as cold as ice nothing more having been heard of our poor little kitten we can only conclude that she has gone overboard
