an actual catalog of facts shes had no interest in settling down into what would be described as a normal life in this memoir she recaps her lifes out of the ordinary adventures against the backdrop of water earth fire and air earth air fire and water is rikhoff s account of growing up in the 1950s she tells about trying many roles such as writer wife mother professor friend with her real role in life always seeming to evade her her adventures include several years spent in europe and numerous visits to africa and india as well as remote locations such as cambodia and the easter islands among her many experiences are a doomed love affair with a spanish count an extraordinary encounter with a masai chieftain in kenya and an intense and humorous friendship with the famous american sculptor david smith with anecdotes and photographs this memoir shows that through all of rikhoff s many exploits she is searching for who she is not an appendage to someone else but as a woman who wants to carve out a life that is uniquely her own best memoir of 2011 from the adirondack center for writing this memoir chronicles the life of mary susannah robbins poet activist and devoted daughter of famous mathematician herbert e robbins her antiwar activism beginning with her experiences during the vietnam war and continuing into the present with the iraq war has given her a perspective from which to tell a unique story of american life her childhood having been spent surrounded by such luminaries of the twentieth century as albert einstein aldous huxley and alan lomax robbins writes of the early influence that her parents and their colleagues had on her later call to activism in the 1960s she discusses the relationships that guided her to become involved with various antiwar movements her personal reflections within this book form a powerful tribute to the many lives that have touched and been touched by her bachelard called them the hormones of the imagination hegel observed that through the four elements we have the elevation of sensuous ideas into thought earth air fire and water are explored as both philosophical ideas and environmental issues associated with their classical and perennial conceptions david macauley embarks upon a wide ranging discussion of their initial appearance in ancient greek thought as mythic forces or scientific principles to their recent reemergence within contemporary continental philosophy as a means for understanding landscape and language poetry and place the body and the body politic in so doing he shows the importance of elemental thinking for comprehending and responding to ecological problems in tracing changing views of the four elements through the history of ideas macauley generates a new vocabulary for and a
