Why Moderates Make the Best Presidents 2012-09-12 george washington abraham lincoln theodore roosevelt franklin delano roosevelt john f kennedy ronald reagan most would agree their presidencies were amongst the most successful in american history but what made these very different men such effective leaders according to presidential historian gil troy these presidents succeeded not because of their bold political visions but because of their moderation although many presidential candidates claim to be moderates the word cannot conceal a political climate defined by extreme rhetoric and virulent partisanship in this book troy argues that this is a distinctly un american state of affairs the great presidents of american history have always sought a golden mean from george washington who brilliantly mediated between the competing visions of thomas jefferson and alexander hamilton to abraham lincoln who rescued the union with his principled pragmatism to the two roosevelts theodore and franklin who united millions of americans with their powerful affirmative nationalist visions moderation in politics is difficult to achieve in an age of excess an anything goes culture feeds an all or nothing politics in the face of challenges both at home and abroad troy calls for a muscular moderation a powerful affirmation of the values that united us and a commitment to a politics that builds from the center rather than playing to extremes as america lines up to select its next president gil troy brilliantly reminds us of the finest traditions of presidential leadership from our nation's past published in 2008 by basic books as leading from the center this is first time in paperback
