a 2023 civics book of the month pick how we think about civic participation has changed dramatically and informs our understanding of how civic education is being transformed nations globally are redefining what is needed to be a good citizen and how they should create them civic participation increasingly extends beyond voting in elections to informal and unconventional action making one's voice heard involves diverse communication media and wide ranging skills young people are motivated to engagement by concern about climate change and the rights of marginalised people social media empower but bring the threat of extremism civic education new civics must channel and foster these trends to create critical active and responsible citizenship knowledge alone is not enough young people need to be able to take critical perspectives on a wide range of social and political issues and to acquire the social cognitive and organizational skills to do so how is new civics pedagogy being manifested what traditional practices are under scrutiny in this volume sixteen projects in eight countries address questions in research practices policy and professional development what is civic identity and how does participation reflect it where do new discourses and definitions come from how do contemporary social and cultural debates and issues intersect with practice and precepts although the field of deliberative civic engagement is growing rapidly around the world our knowledge and understanding of its practice and impacts remain highly fragmented democracy in motion represents the first comprehensive attempt to assess the practice and impact of deliberative civic engagement organized in a series of chapters that address the big questions of deliberative civic engagement it uses theory research and practice from around the world to explore what we know about how we know it and what remains to be understood more than a simple summary of research the book is designed to be accessible and useful to a wide variety of audiences from scholars and practitioners working in numerous disciplines and fields to public officials activists and average citizens who are seeking to utilize deliberative civic engagement in their communities the book significantly enhances current scholarship serving as a guide to existing research and identifying useful future research it also has promise for enhancing practice for example by helping practitioners public officials and others better think through and articulate issues of design and outcomes thus enabling them to garner more support for public deliberation activities in addition by identifying what remains to be learned about public deliberation practitioners and public officials may be inspired to connect with scholars to conduct research and evaluations of their efforts for students citizenship education means more than merely learning about citizenship and democracy citizenship education means learning through practicing citizenship inside and outside the school one model for that is service learning first conceived in north america but now also taking root in other parts of the world service learning combines service and learning by linking community service and reflection about it in class as former elementary school teachers the authors focus on what is possible in schools rather than a romantic vision of what schools could be based on a 5 year study of an elementary school this book shows how civic engagement can be purposive and critical a way to encourage young people to examine their environment to notice and question injustices and to take action to make a difference in their communities and school focusing on the intersection of student voice and critical inquiry the book describes how to embed civic engagement into curriculum school decision making processes and whole school activities chapters provide an overview of what research has demonstrated about civic engagement at the classroom school and community levels including detailed descriptions of activities and lessons for practice classroom teachers school principals community members and teacher educators can use this resource to foster a deeper richer understanding of what is entailed in civic life book features a vivid portrait of a typical public school that wants to do more than teach to the test an examination of the conditions that enable young people to participate in democratic practices including identifying and questioning injustices concrete examples of student voice and critical inquiry in classroom contexts practices and activities that encourage children to get along with others exchange perspectives and work across differences offers a suggestive range of evidence that high quality civic engagement initiatives can enhance students academic social and emotional engagement it reveals the nitty gritty of how experienced teachers can enable children who are immersed in meaningful civic work also to engage more deeply with mathematical problem solving peer collaboration literacy and social studies learning and development of empathy and mutual trust from the foreword by meira levinson mitra and serriere show us not only that elementary aged children are capable of civic engagement but how such engagement can be nurtured in the classroom children can be active civic participants this book demonstrates both the power of this idea and how we might accomplish this essential task beth c rubin rutgers university through practices of collaborative imagination and making or doing design otherwise design experiments can contribute to keeping local democracies vibrant in this counterpoint to the grand narratives of design punditry carl disalvo presents what he calls doing design otherwise arguing that democracy requires constant renewal and care he shows how designers can supply novel contributions to local democracy by drawing together theory and practice making and reflection the relentless pursuit of innovation uncritical embrace of the new and novel and treatment of all things as design problems says disalvo can lead to cultural imperialism in design as democratic inquiry he recounts a series of projects that exemplify engaged design in practice these experiments in practice based research are grounded in collaborations with communities and institutions the projects disalvo describes took place from 2014 to 2019 in atlanta rather than presume that government industry or academia should determine the outcome the designers began with the recognition that the residents and local organizations were already creative and resourceful disalvo uses the projects to show how design might work as a mode of inquiry resisting heroic stories of design and innovation he argues for embracing design as fragile contingent partial and compromised in particular he explores how design might be leveraged to facilitate a more diverse civic imagination a fundamental tenet of design is that the world is made and therefore it could be made differently a key concept is that democracy requires constant renewal and care thus designing becomes a way to care together for our collective future
