siraya is a formosan language once spoken around tainan city in southwest taiwan this comprehensive study is based on an analysis of the language of the siraya gospel of st matthew which was translated from the dutch in 1661 it contains a grammar lexicon and extensive text with interlinear glossing as well as an introduction with detailed background information siraya has many unique linguistic features which are of great interest to the study of linguistic typology in general they include various reduplication patterns orientation prefixes adding the notions of motion location or comitation to a verb and anticipating sequences the latter are usually formal elements of the lexical verb such as a first consonant or a first syllable which are prefixed to the auxiliary siraya is also of crucial importance for the prehistory of taiwan because it is one of the first languages to branch off from the austronesian language family which has more than 1200 members the volume is a major contribution to the siraya people who are keen to rehabilitate siraya culture heritage and are endeavouring to learn their lost language again it is a unique achievement in the endeavour to revitalise the traditional languages of taiwan

the tuna resources of the philippine seas are relatively unexploited at present and represent the largest single opportunity for the expansion of the fisheries of that nation the results of 2 5 years of study and exploration of this resource and the prospects for developing it are presented a tuna canning industry of modest proportions could be established using the longline trawl technique to capture the fish limitations of the supply of bait fishes preclude extensive development of live bait fishing american tuna fishing techniques have not been successful in the philippines to date and are probably too expensive since philippine waters are probably less than one half as productive as those of the eastern pacific
