Ancient Greek Housing 2023-04-30 olynthos an ancient city in northern greece was preserved in an exceptionally complete state after its abrupt sacking by phillip ii of macedon in 348 b c and excavations in the 1920s and 1930s uncovered more than a hundred houses and their contents in this book nicholas cahill analyzes the results of the excavations to reconstruct the daily lives of the ancient greeks the organization of their public and domestic space and the economic and social patterns in the city cahill compares the realities of daily life as revealed by the archaeological remains with theories of ideal social and household organization espoused by ancient greek authors

describing the enormous variety of domestic arrangements he examines patterns and differences in the design of houses in the occupations of owners and in the articulations between household and urban economies the value of land and other aspects of ancient life throughout the city he thus challenges the traditional view that the greeks had one standard household model and approach to city planning he shows how the greeks reconciled conflicting demands of ideal and practice for instance between egalitarianism and social inequality or between the normative roles of men and women and roles demanded by economic necessities the book which is extensively illustrated with plans and photographs is supported by a site containing a database of the architecture and finds from the excavations linked to plans of the site

The Economy of Classical Athens 2006-01-01 the rise of capitalism to global dominance is still largely associated by both laypeople and marxist historians with the industrial capitalism that made its decisive breakthrough in 18th century britain jairus banaji s new work reaches back centuries and traverses vast distances to argue that this leap was preceded by a long era of distinct commercial capitalism which reorganised labor and production on a world scale to a degree hitherto rarely appreciated rather than a picture centred solely on europe we enter a diverse and vibrant world banaji reveals the cantons of muslim merchants trading in guangzhou since the eighth century the 3 000 european traders recorded in alexandria in 1216 the genoese venetians and spanish jews battling for commercial dominance of constantinople and later istanbul we are left with a rich and global portrait of a world constantly in motion tied together and increasingly dominated by a pre industrial capitalism the rise of europe to world domination in this view has nothing to do with any unique genius but rather a distinct fusion of commercial capitalism with state power

The House of the Father As Fact and Symbol 2020-07-07 studies of the british industrial revolution and of the victorian period of economic and social development have until very recently concentrated on british industries and industrial regions while commerce and finance and particularly that of london have been substantially neglected this has distorted our view of the process of change since financial services and much trade continued to be centred on the metropolis and the south east region never lost its position at the top of the national league of wealth
