this is the second of raymond aron s classic two volume survey of the sociological tradition arguably the definitive work of its kind aron explores the work of three figures who profoundly shaped sociology as it entered the twentieth century Émile durkheim who continued auguste comte s quest for a science of society and a scientific validation of morality vilfredo pareto the italian neo machiavellian who emphasized the oligarchic or elitist character of all societies and the german sociologist max weber who reflected critically on the prospects for human freedom in an age marked by bureaucratization and rationalization aron presents rich portraits of these three thinkers drawing out the enduring insights that remain in their work at the same time he reflects critically on durkheim s project for a science of society pareto s critique of humanitarianism and weber s tragic pessimism above all the book is remarkable for demonstrating aron s lifelong indebtedness to and divergence from the thought of max weber the sociologist par excellence in aron s view this routledge classics edition includes an might have snuck in answers too disclaimer we re not guaranteeing that the answers are right but they re pretty dang good we re also aware that not everyone is going to agree with any or all of the answers plus life goes on and we discover new stuff and the answers change we are totally aware that some people who don t like to talk about god and science together some people who don t like to talk about god at all and some people who talk about god all the time from a certain perspective won t like much of this at all they should all read it learning to think
