A History of Video Art 2013-11-07 a history of video art is a revised and expanded edition of the 2006 original which extends the scope of the first edition incorporating a wider range of artists and works from across the globe and explores and examines developments in the genre of artists video from the mid 1990s up to the present day in addition the new edition expands and updates the discussion of theoretical concepts and ideas which underpin contemporary artists video tracking the changing forms of video art in relation to the revolution in electronic and digital imaging that has taken place during the last 50 years a history of video art orients video art in the wider art historical context with particular reference to the shift from the structuralism of the late 1960s and early 1970s to the post modernist concerns of the 1980s and early 1990s the new edition also explores the implications of the internationalisation of artists video in the period leading up to the new millennium and its concerns and preoccupations including post colonialism the post medium condition and the impact and influence of the internet

Abstract Video 2015-09-15 offering historical and theoretical positions from a variety of art historians artists curators and writers this groundbreaking collection is the first substantive sourcebook on abstraction in moving image media with a particular focus on art since 2000 abstract video addresses a longer history of experimentation in video net art installation new media expanded cinema visual music and experimental film editor gabrielle jennings a video artist herself reveals as never before how works of abstract video are not merely as the renowned curator kirk varnedoe once put it pictures of nothing but rather amorphous ungovernable spaces that encourage contemplation and innovation in explorations of the work of celebrated artists such as jeremy blake mona hatoum pierre huyghe ryoji ikeda takeshi murata diana thater and jennifer west alongside emerging artists this volume presents fresh and vigorous perspectives on a burgeoning and ever changing arena of contemporary art

Video Art Theory 2015-06-15 video art theory a comparative approach demonstrates how video art functions on the basis of a comparative media approach providing a crucial understanding of video as a medium in contemporary art and of the visual mediations we encounter in daily life a critical investigation of the visual media and selected video artworks which contributes to the understanding of video as a medium in contemporary art the only study specifically devoted to theorizing the medium of video from the perspective of prominent characteristics which result from how video works deal with time space representation and narrative the text has emerged out of the author s own lectures and seminars on video art offers a comparative approach which students find especially useful offering new perspectives

Video Art Historicized 2016-03-03 video art emerged as an art form that from the 1960s and onwards challenged the concept of art hence art historical practices from the perspective of artists critics and scholars engaged with this new medium art was seen as too limiting a notion important issues were to re think art as a means for critical investigations and a demand for visual reconsiderations likewise art history was argued to be in crisis and in need of adapting its theories and methods in order to produce interpretations and thereby establish historical sense for moving images as fine art yet as this book argues video art history has evolved into a discourse clinging to traditional concepts ideologies and narrative structures manifested in an increasing body of texts video art historicized provides a novel insightful and also challenging re interpretation of this field by examining the discourse and its own premises it takes a firm conceptual approach to the material examining the conceptual theoretical and methodological implications that are simultaneously contested by both artists and authors yet intertwined in both the legitimizing and the historicizing processes of video as art by engaging art history's most debated concepts canon art and history this study provides an in depth investigation of the mechanisms of the historiography of video art scrutinizing various narratives on video art the book emphasizes the profound and widespread hesitations towards but also the efforts to negotiate traditional concepts and practices by focusing on the politics of this discourse theoretical issues of gender nationality and particular themes in video art malin hedlin hayden contests the presumptions that inform video art and its history

Screen Time 2022-01-21 published on the occasion of the art exhibition screen time photography and video art in the internet age this catalog features a selection of leading international artists who engage with and critique the role of media in contemporary society their work demonstrates what has become known as post internet artistic practices art that may or may not be made for the internet but nevertheless acknowledges online culture as an omnipresent influence inseparable from contemporary social conditions they ask what it means to be a photographer when everyone is an instagram influencer what it means to

Digital and Video Art 2005 images have never been as freely circulated as they are today they have also never been so tightly controlled as with the birth of photography digital reproduction has created new possibilities for the duplication and consumption of images offering greater dissemination and access but digital reproduction has also stoked new anxieties concerning authenticity and ownership from this contemporary vantage point after uniqueness traces the ambivalence of reproducibility through the intersecting histories of experimental cinema and the moving image in art examining how artists filmmakers and theorists have found in the copy a utopian promise or a dangerous inauthenticity or both at once from the sale of film in limited editions on the art market to the downloading of bootlegs from the singularity of live cinema to video art broadcast on television erika balsom investigates how the reproducibility of the moving image has been embraced rejected and negotiated by major figures including stan brakhage leo castelli and gregory markopoulos through a comparative analysis of selected distribution models and key case studies she demonstrates how the question of image circulation is central to the history of film and video art after uniqueness shows that distribution channels are more than neutral pathways they determine how we encounter interpret and write the history of the moving image as an art form

After Uniqueness 2017-03-21 videography is an attempt to discover the conditions under which it is possible to speak write and teach about the electronic media it provides a materialist account of video and computer media as they are practised and used today a theoretical section tests the claims of various theses in art history media and cultural theory to account for the variety of video practice in the contemporary scene the remainder of the book is devoted to close analysis of work from amateur video to computer graphics

Videography 1993-11-09 cyrus manasseh is an academic writer and editor he holds a phd from the university of western australia in art history and philosophy and a ba hons from the university of reading england in film and drama and art history dr manasseh is an associate editor for design principles and practices an international journal and the international journal of the arts in society he has also published articles in the international journal of the arts in society the melbourne art journal and other academic journals and conference proceedings in the field of visual arts book jacket

The Problematic of Video Art in the Museum, 1968-1990 2009 the genre of the video clip has been established for more than thirty years mainly served by the sub genres of video art and music video this book explores processes of hybridization between music video film and video art by presenting current theoretical discourses and engaging them through interviews with well known artists and directors bringing to the surface the crucial questions of art practice the collection discusses topics including postcolonialism posthumanism gender race and class and addresses questions regarding the hybrid media structure of video the diffusion between content and form art and commerce as well as pop culture and counterculture through the diversity of the areas and interviews included the book builds on and moves beyond earlier aesthetics driven perspectives on music video Video Art 2006 video art is a critical introduction and guide to artists video in both europe and north america it covers the period from the early 1960s when video art first appeared as a distinctive medium into the 1990s when digital technology merged video s distinctive practice with that of independent film making and photography this artistic history is also a technological and a cultural history that sets its analysis of artistic practice firmly within the context of both the development of electronic imaging technology and the changing political and social climate richly illustrated video art is essential reading for anyone interested in art history and contemporary art practice

A History of Video Art 2006-12-12 with insightful essays and interviews this volume examines how artists have experimented with the medium of video across different regions of latin america since the 1960s the emergence of video art in latin america is marked by multiple points of development across more than a dozen artistic centers over a period of more than twenty five years when first introduced during the 1960s video was seen as empowering the portability of early equipment and the possibility of instant playback allowed artists to challenge and at times subvert the mainstream media video art in latin america was and still is closely related to the desire for social change themes related to gender ethnic and racial identity as well as the consequences of social inequality and ecological disasters have been fundamental to many artists practices this compendium explores the history and current state of artistic experimentation with video throughout latin america departing from the relatively small body of existing scholarship in english much of which focuses on individual countries this volume approaches the topic thematically positioning video artworks from different periods and regions throughout latin america in dialogue with each other organized in four broad sections encounters networks and archives memory and crisis and indigenous perspectives the book s essays and interviews encourage readers to examine the medium of video across varied chronologies and geographies to a project conducted by los angeles contemporary exhibitions lace this volume presents original articles by many of the most interesting video artists filmmakers and critical theorists writing today their subjects from video pedagogy to emerging technologies are many and varied and together constitute a clear and complete picture of the state of the medium constructed like an inquiry into newly forming video practice the collection at once interweaves and questions a series of relationships among politics popular culture artistic intervention and social practices the often provocative essays on topics ranging from video porn to geraldo rivera to lesbian representation to the politics of video memory contribute significantly to a much needed reconceptualization of the electronic medium

Resolutions 1996 an argument that video is not merely an intermediate stage between analog and digital but a medium in its own right traces the theoretical genealogy of video and examines the different concepts of video seen in works by vito acconci ulrike rosenbach steina and woody vasulka and others video is an electronic medium dependent on the transfer of electronic signals video signals are in constant movement circulating between camera and monitor this process of simultaneous production and reproduction makes video the most reflexive of media distinct from both photography and film in which the image or a sequence of images is central because it is processual and not bound to recording and the appearance of a frame video shares properties with the computer in this book yvonne spielmann argues that video is not merely an intermediate stage between analog and digital but a medium in its own right video has metamorphosed from technology to medium with a set of aesthetic languages that are specific to it and current critical debates on new media still need to recognize this spielmann considers video as transformation imagery acknowledging the centrality in video of the transitions between images and the fact that these transitions are explicitly reflected in new processes after situating video in a genealogical model that demonstrates both its continuities and discontinuities with other media spielmann considers three strands of video praxis documentary experimental art and experimental image making which is concerned primarily with signal processing she then discusses selected works by such artists as vito acconci ulrike rosenbach joan jonas nam june paik peter campus dara birnbaum nan hoover lynn hershman gary hill steina and woody vasulka bill seaman and others these works serve to demonstrate the spectrum of possibilities in video as medium and point to connections with other forms of media finally spielmann discusses the potential of interactivity complexity and hybridization in the future of video as a medium

Video 2010-08-13 becoming commercially available in the mid 1960s video quickly became integral to the intense experimentalism of new york city s music and art scenes the medium was able to record image and sound at the same time which allowed composers to visualize their music and artists to sound their images but as well as creating unprecedented forms of audiovisuality video work also produced interactive spaces that questioned conventional habits of music and art consumption this book explores the first decade of creative video work focusing on the ways in which video technology was used to dissolve the boundaries between art and music

Sounding the Gallery 2013-03-13 founded in 1976 at the inception of the media arts movement the video data bank is the leading resource in the united states for videotapes by and about contemporary artists the collections include seminal works that seen as a whole describe the development of video as an art form originating in the late 1960s and continuing to the present the first printed catalog of the video data bank's complete holdings feedback offers readers essays on the history of media arts the video data bank video activism experimental performance art and the on art and artists collection it includes 325 frame grabs and stills from some of the collection's most important pieces and outlines the styles and directions taken by artists throughout the entire history of video art an indispensable guide and reference for artists students teachers and collectors feedback is an essential book for any film and video bookshelf

Feedback 2006 as light is to painting so is time to video for centuries time in art had been connected to the idea of permanence and then since the 60s performance but where is time now in an age when global events are shared worldwide in real time artists have responded by producing works that challenge our conventional notions of time by altering clocks memory constancy documentation movements and actions time after all is a universal language yet it is perhaps the least commonly understood making time attempts to clarify that gap beginning with many influential single channel video works from the 60s and early 70s including andy warhol's empire and gilbert george's singing sculpture making time traces time based work through the present juxtaposing these experimental works against narrative works from the same period essays by peter wollen adriano pedrosa and amy cappellazzo look into the past and present of time as a material in video and film Making Time 2000 video art is to be seen ever more frequently outside the walls of art institutions in public space artists infiltrate advertising screens on the street project moving images onto edifices or enter into far reaching collaborations with architects at unexpected spots this video art shakes chance passers by out of their reverie or merges effortlessly into the streetscape the images provide a critique of the advertising messages in the city underscore the aesthetic of the built environment or make visible the skewed power relations on the street without exception such video works establish a relationship with the architecture and the immediate surroundings more than 80 video works initiatives organizations and artists from the netherlands and abroad are described in this book the moving images enrich transform or mask the public space and inject the city with a healthy dose of imagination in pixels and places art historian catrien schreuder situates video art in public space within an art historical and theoretical framework for the first time

Pixels and Places 2010 this anthology brings together a collection of essays that discuss various aspects of british video art within a range of frameworks historical theoretical critical and chronological Diverse Practices 1996 an up to date survey of the video art form traces its history throughout the past forty years and cites the work of key contributors discussing a wide range of installations from the 1980s and 1990s while providing new coverage of the recent use of immersive environments including virtual reality reprint Video Art 2007 this volume contains the insights of prominent artists in the field as well as critical writings by scholars and critics it illustrates the complex heterogeneous nature of video and highlights its strong ties to the visual arts and social theory while providing an essential critical context for understanding video s role as art these writings show that video is at the forefront of contemporary cultural and aesthetic discourse using a wide range of strategies from the poetic to the deconstructive these essays provide a long overdue critical context in which to evaluate video as art and its subsequent impact on social and cultural behavior

Illuminating Video 1990 the past 40 years of technological innovation have significantly altered the materials of production and revolutionized the possibilities for experiment and exhibition not since the invention of film has there been such a critical period of major change in the imaging technologies accessible to artists bringing together key artists in film video and digital media the anthology of experimental film and video revisits the divergent philosophical and critical discourses of the 1970s and repositions these debates relative to contemporary practice forty artists have contributed images and 25 artists reflect on the diverse critical agendas contexts and communities that have affected their practice across the period from the late 1960s to date along with an introduction by jackie hatfield and forewords by sean cubitt and al rees this illustrated anthology includes interviews and recent essays by filmmakers video artists and pioneers of interactive cinema experimental film and video opens up the conceptual avenues for future practice and related critical writing

Talking pictures 2007 what is the subject of video charlotte klink traces the development of electromagnetism in the pursuit of electric seeing that emerged in the 19th century as well as its curious relation to psychoanalysis and the contemporary discovery of the structure of the human psyche in doing so she exposes how this development laid the foundation of what we know today as video this comprehensive theory of video entails a discussion of the technological historical and etymological roots the media theoretical concepts of medium and index the philosophical and art theoretical environment in which video emerged in the 1960s the psychoanalytic concept of the phantasm and artworks by artists such as yael bartana hito steyerl and bjørn melhus

Experimental Film and Video 2006-08-09 making images move reveals a new history of cinema by uncovering its connections to other media and art forms in this richly illustrated volume gregory zinman explores how moving image artists who worked in experimental film pushed the medium toward abstraction through a number of unconventional filmmaking practices including painting and scratching directly on the film strip deteriorating film with water dirt and bleach and applying materials such as paper and glue this book provides a comprehensive history of this tradition of handmade cinema from the early twentieth century to the present opening up new conversations about the production meaning and significance of the moving image from painted film to kinetic art and from psychedelic light shows to video synthesis gregory zinman recovers the range of forms tools and intentions that make up cinema s shadow history deepening awareness of the intersection of art and media in the twentieth century and

Video Art Theory 2016 avant garde film is almost indefinable it is in a constant state of change and redefinition in his highly acclaimed history of experimental film a l rees tracks the movement of the film avant garde between the cinema and modern art with its postmodern coda but he also reconstitutes the film avant garde as an independent form of art practice with its own internal logic and aesthetic discourse in this revised and updated edition rees introduces experimental film and video to new readers interested in the wider cinema as well as offering a guide to enthusiasts of avant garde film and new media arts ranging from cézanne and dada via cocteau brakhage and le grice to the new wave of british film and video artists from the 1990s to the present day this expansive study situates avant garde film between the cinema and the gallery with many links to sonic as well as visual arts the new edition includes a review of current scholarship in avant garde film history and includes updated reading and viewing lists it also features a new introduction and concluding chapter which assess the rise of video projection in the gallery since the millennium and describe new work by the latest generation of experimental film makers the new edition is richly illustrated with images of the art works discussed

Making Images Move 2020-01-03 against immediacy is a history of early video art considered in relation to television in the united states during the 1960s and 1970s it examines how artists questioned the ways in which the people were ideologically figured by the commercial mass media during this time artists and organizations including nam june paik juan downey and the women s video news service challenged the existing limits of the one to many model of televisual broadcasting while simultaneously constructing more democratic bottom up models in which the people mediated themselves operating at the intersection between art history and media studies against immediacy connects early video art and the rise of the media screen in gallery based art to discussions about participation and the activation of the spectator in art and electronic media moving from video art as an early form of democratic media practice to its canonization as a form of high art

Art Direction for Film and Video 1998-10-22 video has commanded a place within the domain of the visual arts since 1965 and has now grown into one of the most widely used forms of art after the successful introduction of the medium in the united states europe followed suit with the netherlands playing a pioneering role the video art circuit in the netherlands evolved thanks to a unique cross fertilization of local and international tendencies and to the provision of workshop facilities by institutions like het lijnbaanscentrum jan van eijck akademie monte video and de appel from the early 1970s to the mid 80s the new medium rapidly achieved maturity with artists discovering its creative possibilities and documentary expressiveness but continuously needing to defend its validity the gradual integration of simpler and cheaper montage techniques in the production process marked a turning point for video art clearing the way for its assimilation into the art world in the 90s recognizing that there are multiple ways to explain and record the development of video art the magnetic era offers a variety of perspectives and themes as communicated via a range of writers rather than a strict chronology

A History of Experimental Film and Video 2019-07-25 what is a moving image and how does it move us in thinking in film celebrated theorist mieke bal engages in an exploration part dialogue part voyage with the video installations of finnish artist eija liisa ahtila to understand movement as artistic practice and as affect through fifteen years of ahtila s practice including such seminal works as the annunciation where is where and the house bal searches for the places where theoretical and artistic practices intersect to create radical spaces in which genuinely democratic acts are performed bringing together different understandings of figure from form to character bal examines the syntax of the exhibition and its ability to bring together installations the work itself the physical and ontological thresholds of the installation space and the use of narrative and genre the double meaning of movement in bal s unique thought catalyses an understanding of video installation work as inherently plural heterogenous and possessed of revolutionary political potential the video image as an art form illuminates the question of what an image is and the installation binds viewers to their own interactions with the space in this context bal argues that the intersection between movement and space creates an openness to difference and doubt by thinking in art we find ideas not illustrated by but actualized in artworks bal practices this theory in action to demonstrate how the video installation can move us to think beyond ordinary boundaries and venture into new spaces there is no act more radical than figuring a vision of the other as film allows art to do thinking in film is mieke bal ather incisive innovative best as she opens up the miraculous political potential of the condensed art of the moving image

Against Immediacy 2016-07-05 encompassing experimental film and video essay film gallery based installation art and digital art jihoon kim establishes the concept of hybrid moving images as an array of impure images shaped by the encounters and negotiations between different media while also using it to explore various theoretical issues such as stillness and movement indexicality abstraction materiality afterlives of the celluloid cinema archive memory apparatus and the concept of medium as such grounding its study in interdisciplinary framework of film studies media studies and contemporary art criticism between film video and the digital offers a fresh insight on the post media conditions of film and video under the pervasive influences of digital technologies as well as on the crucial roles of media hybridity in the creative processes of giving birth to the emerging forms of the moving image incorporating in depth readings of recent works by more than thirty artists and filmmakers including jim campbell bill viola sam taylor johnson david claerbout fiona tan
