The Domestication of Desire 2012-10-11 while doing fieldwork in the modernizing javanese city of solo during the late 1980s suzanne brenner came upon a neighborhood that seemed like a museum of a bygone era laweyan a once thriving production center of batik textiles had embraced modernity under dutch colonial rule only to fend off the modernizing forces of the indonesian state during the late twentieth century focusing on this community brenner examines what she calls the making of the unmodern she portrays a merchant enclave clinging to its distinctive forms of social life and highlights the unique power of women in the marketplace and the home two domains closely linked to each other through local economies of production and exchange against the social political and economic developments of late colonial and postcolonial java brenner describes how an innovative commercially successful lifestyle became an anachronism in indonesian society thereby challenging the idea that tradition invariably gives way to modernity in an evolutionary progression brenner s analysis centers on the importance of gender to processes of social transformation in laweyan the base of economic and social power has shifted from families in which women were the main producers of wealth and cultural value to the indonesian state which has worked to reorient families toward national political agendas how such attempts affect women s lives and the meaning of the family itself are key considerations as brenner questions long held assumptions about the division between domestic and public spheres in modern society

Contemporary Indonesian Fashion 2019-10-31 indonesian fashion has undergone a period of rapid growth over the last three decades this book explores how through years of social political and cultural upheaval the country s fashion has moved away from colonial fashion and national dress to claim its own distinct identity as contemporary fashion in a global world with specific reference to women s wear contemporary indonesian fashion explores the diversity and complexity of the country s sartorial offerings which weave together local textile traditions like batik and ikat making with contemporary narratives the book questions concepts of tradition and modernity in the developing world taking stock of the elite consumption of luxury brands and the large scale manufacturing of fast fashion and introduces us to the rise of new trends such as busana muslim or modest wear creating a portrait of a vibrant and growing national and increasingly international industry exploring clothing in shopping malls on the catwalk in magazines and online the book examines how indonesian fashion is made presented and consumed combining research in indonesia with analysis and personal reflection contemporary indonesian fashion ultimately questions the deeply entrenched eurocentrism of global fashion simultaneously interrogating current homogenizing beauty and body image discourses posited as universal by pointing to absences silences and erasures as reflected by contemporary indonesian fashion hence the looking glass of the title aptly illustrated the book offers a new perspective on a rapidly developing new fashion capital jakarta

Hinduism in Modern Indonesia 2005-06-28 in the course of the 20th century hardly a region in the world has escaped the triumph of global consumerism muslim societies are no exception globalized brands are pervasive and the landscapes of consumption are changing at a breathtaking pace yet muslim consumers are not passive victims of the homogenizing forces of globalization they actively appropriate and adapt the new commodities and spaces of consumption to their own needs and integrate them into their culture simultaneously this culture is reshaped and reinvented to comply with the mechanisms of conspicuous consumption it is these processes that this volume seeks to address from an interdisciplinary perspective the papers in this anthology present innovative approaches to a wide range of issues that have so far barely received scholarly attention the topics range from the changing spaces of consumption to islamic branding from the marketing of religious music to the consumption patterns of muslim minority groups this anthology uses consumption as a prism through which to view and better understand the enormous transformations that muslim societies middle eastern south east asian as well as diasporic ones have undergone in the past few decades

Islamic Economic Institutions In Indonesia: Are They Successful In Achieving The Maqasad-al-shari'ah

2023-04-10 this book highlights the gains that a citizenship approach offers to the study of democracy in indonesia demonstrating that the struggle for citizenship and the historical development of democracy in the country are closely interwoven the book arises from a research agenda aiming to help indonesia s democracy activists by unpacking citizenship as it is produced and practiced through movements against injustice taking the shape of struggles by people at grassroots levels for cultural recognition social and economic injustice and popular representation such struggles in indonesia have engaged with the state through both discursive and non discursive processes the authors show that while the state is the common focal point these struggles are fragmented across different sectors and subject positions the authors thus propose that developing chains of solidarity is highly important to motivating a democracy that not only has sovereign control over public affairs but also robust channels and organisations for political representation in advocating the development of transformative agendas organisations and strategies as an important need and an enduring challenge for the realization of citizenship this book is timely and relevant to the study of contemporary indonesia s socio political landscape it is relevant to students and scholars in political science anthropology sociology human geography and development studies

Resplendent Sites, Discordant Voices 2012-10-12 an accessible transregional exploration of how islam and asia have shaped each other's histories, societies and cultures from the seventh century to today. Cosmopolitan ideals and pluralist tendencies have been employed creatively and adapted carefully by Muslim individuals, societies and institutions in modern Southeast Asia to produce the necessary contexts for mutual tolerance and shared respect between and within different groups in society organised around six key themes that interweave the connected histories of three countries in Southeast Asia: Singapore, Malaysia and Indonesia. This book shows the ways in which historical actors have promoted better understanding between Muslims and non-Muslims in the region. Case studies from across these countries of the Malay World take in the rise of the network society in the region in the 1970s up until the early 21st century, providing a panoramic view of Muslim cosmopolitan practices, outlook and visions in the region.
