The Greatest Works of Theodore Dreiser 2018-11-02 in the mid nineteenth century thoreau recognized the importance of preserving the complex and fragile landscape of cape cod with its weathered windmills expansive beaches dunes wetlands harbors and the lives that flourished here supported by the maritime industries and saltworks one hundred years later the national park service working with a group of concerned locals then senator john f kennedy and other supporters took on the challenge of meeting the needs of a burgeoning public in this region of unique natural beauty and cultural heritage to those who were settled in the remote wilds of the cape the impending development was threatening and as the award winning historian ethan carr explains the visionary plan to create a national seashore came very close to failure success was achieved through unprecedented public outreach as the national park service and like minded cape coddors worked to convince entire communities of the long term value of a park that could accommodate millions of tourists years of contentious negotiations resulted in the innovative compromise between private and public interests now known as the cape cod model the greatest beach is essential reading for all who are concerned with protecting the nation s gradually diminishing cultural landscapes in his final analysis of cape cod national seashore carr poses provocative questions about how to balance the conservation of natural and cultural resources in regions threatened by increasing visitation and development

American History through Its Greatest Speeches [3 volumes] 2016-12-05

in 2006 hedge fund manager john paulson realized something few others suspected that the housing market and the value of subprime mortgages were grossly inflated and headed for a major fall paulson s background was in mergers and acquisitions however and he knew little about real estate or how to wager against housing he had spent a career as an also ran on wall street but paulson was convinced this was his chance to make his mark he just wasn t sure how to do it colleagues at investment banks scoffed at him and investors dismissed him even pros skeptical about housing shied away from the complicated derivative investments that paulson was just learning about but paulson and a handful of renegade investors such as jeffrey greene and michael burry began to bet heavily against risky mortgages and precarious financial companies timing is everything though initially paulson and the others lost tens of millions of dollars as real estate and stocks continued to soar rather than back down however paulson redoubled his bets putting his hedge fund and his reputation on the line in the summer of 2007 the markets began to implode bringing paulson early profits but also sparking efforts to rescue real estate and derail him by year s end though john paulson had pulled off the greatest trade in financial history earning more than 15 billion for his firm a figure that dwarfed George Soros's billion-dollar currency trade in 1992. Paulson made billions more in 2008 by transforming his gutsy move into a strategy that convinced some of the underdog investors who attempted the daring trade also reaped fortunes, but others who got the timing wrong met devastating failure. Discovering that being early and right wasn't nearly enough, written by the prizewinning reporter who broke the story in the Wall Street Journal, The Greatest Trade Ever is a superbly written, fast-paced behind-the-scenes narrative of how a contrarian foresaw an escalating financial crisis that outwitted Chuck Prince, Stanley O'Neal, Richard Fuld, and Wall Street's titans to make financial history.

The World's Greatest Books (Vol. 1-18) 2023-11-12 the soul of real estate over the past decades real estate developers have come to rely on the ebb and flow of the business cycle since the 1960s the peaks between these cycles have averaged between seven and ten years so we unquestionably know that they are coming during the upward pendulum swing of an economic cycle we consistently invest this occurs during the period of stable growth and through the inevitable debaucheristic overbuilding once the inevitable bubble bursts we shift into the mode of holding on to as much of our investment portfolio as possible and attempt to avoid bankruptcy often we find ourselves battling demons that we ourselves created whether we were constructing too many projects building and investing in risky locations or cross collateralizing our investments so that when one or two fail they all fail the problems that typically threaten our demise are our own greed and stupidity in addition the product that the developer creates has become consistently more expensive denser and more complex and yet the structure of the firm has not metamorphosed itself to better contemplate the real world challenges that developers face in fact through some anti darwinian paradigm shift the skills within our firms have devolved to the point that good responsive attractive and profitable buildings are more a product of chance than intelligent design whereas they were once tasked with placing a square peg in a square hole the complexity of the responsibility hoist upon our current and future developers requires that they manufacture irregular pegs for a series of ever changing shaped holes most of us are ill prepared for this reality our path is not yet set in stone the opportunity remains ours to return the greatest of professions to its rightful magnificence and so we real estate developers have two daunting tasks first we must continue to evolve and make buildings and second we must reverse the downward trajectory of the profession of development we must save development from the developers the soul of real estate is intended to begin that conversation in part one we explore and offer solutions to our most basic and existential dilemmas we will suggest different values and provide a vision for the future part two applies those premises toward a practical and methodical implementation after all we will surely fail if our solution doesn't seem achievable we must dismantle the broken clock that is real estate development and reengineer and reassemble its parts if we ever expect it to tell time again because development firms differ in scale region and product type there is not a one size fits all solution each of our organizations will be distinct however if the fundamental stability that we discuss is present in each of our organizations the world of development and consequently the world will be a better place our hope is that this discussion is one that we will have throughout our lives first as students in school later during the times when we are most beaten down and the profession feels bleakest and again as we form the basis of our own firms our hope is that we never again forgot who we are why we do what we do and how great it can be when we do it well our hope is that this conversation is just the beginning
