consistent increase in available contraception and access to abortion from the 1960s onwards yet there are a few geographical exceptions that resisted this trend including queensland cassandra byrnes highlights the multifarious ways sexuality and reproduction were continually constructed and challenged during the second half of the twentieth century and follows the responses of key groups to changing laws and attitudes in a time of local and global sexual and social revolutions she explores interactions between identities of gender sexuality class age marital status and geography to illustrate how specific sexed bodies became liminal sites for legal and medical debate this queensland case study is contextualised within international debates concerning women s reproductive rights and will be of interest to students and scholars interested in the history of reproductive rights gender and sexuality monograph comprising a compilation of reprinted un publications ilo publications and other documents dealing with human rights includes a one page bibliography of related books in english references and _____ this work reviews the progress of children's rights 25 years since the adoption of the un convention on the rights of the child it studies the progress of that human rights instrument as part of an ongoing process it examines how recent past present and future generations will benefit or suffer as part of the process in which outcomes cannot be predicted it does not project into the future its emphasis is on a review of the period after 1989 and it comments on what has happened and offering guidance on how children's rights might progress the book presents a realistic but not always critical review of two and a half decades of intensive activity in the field of children's rights worldwide it includes both failures and examples of good practice and positive experiences it offers a review of progress and lack of progress in child rights and welfare in the twelve countries used as case studies in its predecessor the next generation finally the volume considers the impact of current geopolitical and economic realities on children's rights in the early years of the twenty first century the book is a tribute to judith ennew and pays homage to all of the people who have contributed so much to children s rights over the years and wishes to encourage others to take up the cause drawing on elements of progressive education existential theory feminist pedagogy and values education critical humanism combines the holistic psychological concerns of humanistic education with the sociopolitical contextualization of critical pedagogy developed over the past seventeen years in one of north america's most experimental postsecondary programs the new school of dawson college this theory and practice responds to both the personal and the political needs of students reconstructing education is at once a review of this century s educational theories an account of the work at the school and an empowering illustration of the way in which schools can incite the motivation of students and encourage them to become active members in a truly democratic society the case study chapters on the new school give concrete examples of how this philosophy is manifested in the school s methodology structure and pedagogy and draws heavily on the written work of teachers and students to formulate a similar approach for a specific school it is essential to combine a rigorous analysis of existing educational models with the dialectical process of creating and recreating a new model defined by the articulation of both learners and teachers affective cognitive and socially constructed needs this is a valuable book for anyone concerned with alternative approaches to education and for courses on educational theory or the philosophy of education this volume of the yearbook of the european convention on human rights prepared by the directorate of human rights of the council of europe relates to 2003 part one contains information on the convention part two deals with the control mechanism of the european convention on human while liberal democratic states like america britain and australia claim to value freedom of expression and the right to dissent they have always actually criminalized dissent this disposition has worsened since 9 11 and the 2008 great recession this ground breaking study shows that just as dissent involves far more than protest marches so too liberal democratic states have expanded the criminalization of dissent drawing on political and social theorists like arendt bourdieu and isin the book offers a new way of thinking about politics dissent and its criminalization relationally using case studies like the occupy movement selective refusal by israeli soldiers urban squatters democratic education and violence by anti apartheid activists the book highlights the many forms dissent takes along with the many ways liberal democratic states criminalize it the book highlights the mix of fear and delusion in play when states privilege security to protect an imagined political order from difference and disagreement the book makes a major contribution to political theory legal studies and sociology linking legal political and normative studies in new ways watts shows that ultimately liberal democracies rely more on sovereignty and the capacity for coercion and declarations of legal states of exception than on liberal democratic principles in a time marked by a deepening crisis of democracy the book argues dissent is increasingly valuable the european convention on human rights is the most successful system for the enforcement of human rights in the world however to date its full potential for protecting children's rights has not been explored as attention has focused on the un convention on the rights of the child this unique book provides the first analysis of the extensive case law of the commission and the court of human rights on all issues concerning children and their rights this study is important as a study of the regional protection of children's rights and moreover the case law itself can be directly applied in the legal system of nearly every european country including the uk the book includes chapters on the rights of the child under the european convention on human rights in relation to education protection from abuse the right to identity child care juvenile justice health care and immigration and the family it also explores the potential of the strasbourg mechanism for the protection of children's rights and thus provides a practical and vital guide to the study and use of the european convention in the broad area of children's rights children's rights law is often studied and perceived in isolation from the broader field of human rights law this volume explores the inter relationship between children's rights law and more general human rights law in order to see whether elements from each could successfully inform the other children's rights law has a number of distinctive characteristics such as the emphasis on the best interests of the child the use of general principles and the inclusion of third parties e g parents and other care takers in treaty provisions the first part of this book questions whether these features could be a source of inspiration for general human rights law in part two the reverse question is asked could children s rights law draw inspiration from developments in other branches of human rights law that focus on other specific categories of rights holders such as women persons with disabilities indigenous peoples or older persons finally the interaction between children s rights law and human rights law and the potential for their isolation inspiration or integration may be coloured or determined by the thematic issue under consideration therefore the third part of the book studies the interplay between children s rights law and human rights law in the context of specific topics intra family relations lgbtqi marginalization migration media the environment and transnational human rights obligations
