Archeology of Art Theory

1995

this study is an archeological investigation into the historically changing relationship between words and images the result is an encyclopedia of interpretative techniques in which language functions as a model of thought three periods come to the fore in the classical one grammatical structures are responsible for the dominance of describing and identifying activities thought about art departs from the idea that classificatory systems words represent images art criticism is the form of interpretation in this period in the modern period time moves to the foreground now attention is focused on changes in grammatical forms instead of changes in constant structures a hermeneutic form of interpretation comes into being art history in the postmodern period one realizes that words fail to establish a consistent relationship with visibility new semiological theories of interpretation now explain what images can signify this volume is of interest for philosophers of art and art theoreticians as well as for students and professionals in both fields

Art, History, and Postwar Fiction

2019-02-06

art history and postwar fiction explores the ways in which novelists responded to the visual arts from the aftermath of the second world war to the present day if art had long served as a foil to enable novelists to reflect on their craft this book argues that in the postwar period novelists turned to the visual arts to develop new ways of conceptualizing the relationship between literature and history the sense that the novel was becalmed in the end of history was pervasive in the postwar decades in seeming to bring modernism to a climax whilst repeating its foundational gestures visual art also raised questions about the relationship between continuity and change in the development of art in chapters on samuel beckett william gaddis john berger and w g sebal and shorter discussions of writers like doris lessing kathy acker and teju cole this book shows that writing about art was often a means of commenting on historical developments of the period the cold war the new left the legacy of the holocaust furthermore it argues that forms of postwar visual art from abstraction to the readymade offered novelists ways of thinking about the relationship between form and history that went beyond models of reflection or determination by doing so this book also argues that attention to interactions between literature and art can provide critics with new ways to think about the relationship between literature and history beyond reductive oppositions between formalism and historicism autonomy and context

Art History: A Very Short Introduction

2020-01-23

art history encompasses the study of the history and development of painting sculpture and the other visual arts in this very short introduction dana arnold presents an introduction to the issues debates and artefacts that make up art history beginning with a consideration of what art history is she explains what makes the subject distinctive from other fields of study and also explores the emergence of social histories of art such as feminist art history and queer art history using a wide range of images she goes on to explore key aspects of the discipline including how we write present read and look at art and the impact this has on our understanding of art history this second edition includes a new chapter on global art histories considering how the traditional emphasis on periods and styles in art originated in western art and can obscure other critical approaches and artwork from non western cultures arnold also discusses the relationship between art and history and the ways in which art can tell a different history from the one narrated by texts about the series the very short introductions series from oxford university press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area these pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable

George A. Kubler and the Shape of Art History

2023-04-04

an illuminating intellectual biography of a pioneering and singular figure in american art history art historian george a kubler 1912 1996 was a foundational scholar of ancient american art and archaeology as well as spanish and portuguese architecture during over five decades at yale university he published seventeen books that included innovative monographs major works of synthesis and an influential theoretical treatise in this biography thomas f reese analyzes the early formation broad career and writings of kubler casting nuanced light on the origins and development of his thinking notable in reese s discussion and contextualization of kubler s writings is a revealing history and analysis of his shape of time a book so influential to students scholars artists and curious readers in multiple disciplines that it has been continuously in print since 1962 reese reveals how pivotal its ideas were in kubler s own thinking rather than focusing on problems of form as an ordering principle he increasingly came to sequence works by how they communicate meaning the author demonstrates how kubler who professed to have little interest in theory devoted himself to the craft of art history discovering and charting the rules that guided the propagation of structure and significance through time

Art History and Anthropology

2023-12-12

an in depth and nuanced look at the complex relationship between two dynamic fields of study while today we are experiencing a revival of world art and the so called global turn of art history encounters between art historians and anthropologists remain rare even after a century and a half of interactions between these epistemologies a skeptical distance prevails with respect to the disciplinary other this volume is a timely exploration of the roots of this complex dialogue as it emerged worldwide in the colonial and early postcolonial periods between 1870 and 1970 exploring case studies from australia austria brazil france germany and the united states this volume addresses connections and rejections between art historians and anthropologists often in the contested arena of primitive art it examines the roles of a range of figures including the art historian anthropologist aby warburg the modernist artist tarsila do amaral the curator impresario leo frobenius and museum directors such as alfred barr and rené d harnoncourt entering the current debates on decolonizing the past this collection of essays prompts reflection on future relations between these two fields

A Realist Theory of Art History

2013-01-03

as the theoretical alignments within academia shift this book introduces a surprising variety of realism to abolish the old positivist theory dichotomy that has haunted art history demanding frankly the referential detachment of the objects under study the book proposes a stratified multi causal account of art history that addresses postmodern concerns while saving it from its errors of self refutation building from the very basic distinction between intransitive being and transitive knowing objects can be affirmed as real while our knowledge of them is held to be fallible several focused chapters address basic problems while introducing philosophical reflection into art history these include basic ontological distinctions between society and culture general and special history the discontinuity of cultural objects the importance of definition for special history scales facets and fiat objects as forms of historical structure the nature of evidence and proof historical truth and controversies stressing critical realism as the stratified multi causal approach needed for productive research today in the academy this book creates the subject of the ontology of art history and sets aside a theoretical space for metaphysical reflection thus clarifying the usually muddy distinction between theory methodology and historiography in art history

Art History and Its Institutions

what is art history the answer depends on who asks the question museum staff academics art critics collectors dealers and artists themselves all stake competing claims to the aims methods and history of art history dependent on and sustained by different and often competing institutions art history remains a multi faceted field of study art history and its institutions focuses on the professional and institutional formation of art history showing how the discourses that shaped its creation continue to define the field today grouped into three sections articles examine the sites where art history is taught and studied the role of institutions in conferring legitimacy the relationship between modernism and art history and the systems that define and control it from museums and universities to law courts and photography studios the contributors

The Vienna School of Art History

2015-06-26

matthew rampley s the vienna school of art history is the first book in over seventy five years to study in depth and in context the practices of art history from 1847 the year the first teaching position in the discipline was created to 1918 the collapse of austria hungary it traces the emergence of art history as a discipline the establishment of norms of scholarly inquiry and the involvement of art historians in wider debates about the cultural and political identity of the monarchy the so called vienna school plays the central role in the study but rampley also examines the formation of art history elsewhere in austria hungary located in the habsburg imperial capital vienna art historians frequently became entangled in debates that were of importance to art historians elsewhere in the empire and rampley pays particular attention to these areas of overlapping interest he also analyzes the methodological innovations for which the vienna school was well known rampley focuses most fully however on the larger political and ideological context of the practice of art history particularly the way in which art historical debates served as proxies for wider arguments over the political social and cultural life of the habsburg empire

German Art History and Scientific Thought

a fresh contribution to the ongoing debate between kunstwissenschaft scientific study of art and kunstgeschichte art history this essay collection explores how german speaking art historians of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century self consciously generated a field of study prominent north american and european scholars provide new insights into how a mixing of diverse methodologies took place in order to gain a more subtle and comprehensive understanding of how art history became institutionalized and legitimized in germany one common assumption about early art historical writing in germany is that it depended upon a simplistic and narrowly defined formalism this book helps to correct this stereotype by demonstrating the complexity of discussion surrounding formalist concerns and by examining how german speaking art historians borrowed incorporated stole and made analogies with concepts from the sciences in formulating their methods in focusing on the work of some of the well known fathers of the discipline such as alois riegl and heinrich w lfflin as well as on lesser known figures the essays in this volume provide illuminating and sometimes surprising treatments of art history s prior and understudied interactions with a wide range of scientific orientations from psychology sociology and physiognomics to evolutionism and comparative anatomy featuring some of the major voices in the world of art history this volume explores the methodological aspects of comparison in the historiography of the discipline the chapters assess the strengths and weaknesses of comparative practice in the history of art and consider the larger issue of the place of comparative in how art history may develop in the future the contributors represent a comprehensive range of period and geographic command from antiquity to modernity from china and islam to europe from various forms of art history to archaeology anthropology and material culture studies art history is less a single discipline than a series of divergent scholarly fields in very different historical geographic and cultural contexts but all with a visual emphasis on the close examination of objects these fields focus on different often incompatible temporal and cultural contexts yet nonetheless they regard themselves as one coherent discipline namely the history of art there are substantive problems in how the sub fields within the broad brush generalization called art history can speak coherently to each other these are more urgent since the shift from an art history centered on the western tradition to one that is consciously global no one has been more influential in the contemporary practice of art history than erwin panofsky yet many of his early seminal papers remain virtually unknown to art historians as a result michael ann holly maintains art historians today do not have access to the full range of methodological considerations and possibilities that panofsky s thought offers and they often remain unaware of the significant role art history played in the development of modern humanistic thought placing panofsky s theoretical work first in the context of the major historical paradigms generated by hegel burekhardt and dilthey holly shows how these paradigms themselves became the grounds for creative controversy among panofsky s predecessors rieg l wölfflin warburg and dvorák among others she also discusses how panofsky s struggle with the terms and concepts of neo kantianism produced in his work remarkable parallels with the philosophy of ernst cassirer finally she evaluates panofsky s better known and later iconological studies by reading them against the earlier essays and by comparing his earlier ideas with the vision that has inspired recent work in the philosophy of history semiotics and the philosophy of science
