differential equation in mathematics a differential equation is an equation that relates one or more unknown functions and their derivatives in applications the functions generally represent physical quantities the derivatives represent their rates of change ordinary differential equation $\frac{dy}{dx} = f(x, y)$

order of a differential equation $y'' + x y' + y = 1$

$y'' + x y' + y = 1$

$y'' + x y' + y = 1$

first order ordinary differential equation understanding properties of solutions of differential equations is fundamental to much of contemporary science and engineering ordinary differential equations ode s deal with functions of one variable which can often be thought of as the differential equation $y'' + ay' + by = 0$ is a known differential equation called second order constant coefficient linear differential equation since the derivatives are only multiplied by a constant the solution must be a function that remains almost the same under differentiation and e^x is a prime example of such a function
