the society of states in the milieu of the contemporary world the absence of a regulatory mechanism i e anarchy has been the fundamental issue of international relations this book explains how the normative imperatives information and communication technology ict and nuclear deterrence generated ambiance have poised the states in a society where they are bound to follow certain normative imperatives that dilute the color and meaning of anarchy and obliges the states to act in a certain way it develops a theoretical proposition with regard to state power defined in terms of the capability of determining the outcomes the proposition first elaborates how international institutions foster normative imperatives then in line with this ontology it narrows down the focus solely on the power of the states in the contemporary world it explains how the power that can determine the outcome today is holistic in nature comprising both materialistic and normative factors in the next step it tailors the proposition in a way so as to employ it for a specific empirical work the book does not end just positing the theoretical proposition the proposition is testified through some case studies with regard to climate negotiations under the unfccc the empirical part not only serves to examine the plausibility of the theoretical proposition but it also presents the logic of the major actors and the politics with respect to some of the major issues of climate change i e mitigation funding policy and mechanism and adaptation the scholars in this arena climate activists and climate conscious people in general would find this book worth reading as it kindles a different angle to understand the issues in the context of the contemporary world and as it
