within a democratic context it is difficult, messy and as varied as is democracy itself. The program was framed by a sociocultural perspective and the focus was on learning through difference, dialogue across difference, which is more than just talk. It was both the method for doing research and the means for learning. The program described here began in the ferment of teacher education reform in the early 1990s, responding to the critics of the mid-1980s, and this account of it is finished at a time when teacher education is again under attack from a different direction, criticized earlier for being too progressive, teacher education is now seen as too conservative. The longitudinal results of this program show high retention rates and ground the argument that quality teacher preparation programs for teaching in urban schools may well be cost-effective as well as provide increased student learning. This is counter to the current move to shorten teacher preparation programs at a time of low teacher retention in our under-resourced urban schools. The book does not advocate a model for teacher education but it aims to provide principles for practice that include school-university collaboration, democratic dialogue across differences, and inquiry as a way to guide reform. Interventional pain management: a practical approach is the second edition of this comprehensive guide which includes the latest advances in anaesthesia and brand new content edited by international experts in anaesthesiology from the US, UK and India, enhanced by nearly 400 images and illustrations and an accompanying DVD. This is an essential resource for anaesthesiologists in terms of the South African Constitution of 1996. There is a general need for an introduction to comparative law and one that covers what is technically known as applied comparative law, more particularly applied comparative law that involves a study of the bills of rights in other countries. The editors took a risk, experimented, and have delivered a much-needed resource that upends the status quo. Architectural histories: journal of the European Architectural History Network.
