stock of the state of research and policy on the issue of small arms and light weapons salw ten years after the un first agreed to deal with the problem the end of the cold war originated a series of phenomena that would subsequently come to dominate the political agenda perhaps most symptomatic of the ensuing environment is the marked escalation in the scale and dynamics of armed violence driven by the proliferation of salw events in rwanda somalia and bosnia seared into global consciousness the devastating effects of this phenomenon and of the necessity to engage actively in its limitation and prevention this edited volume explores and outlines the research and policy on the salw issue at this critical juncture in addition to providing a detailed telling of the genesis and evolution of salw research and advocacy the volume features a series of essays from leading scholars in the field on both advances in research and action on salw it reflects on what has been achieved in terms of cumulative advances in data methodology and analysis and looks at the ways in which these developments have helped to inform policy making at national regional and international levels alongside situating and integrating past and present advances in advocacy

Musings of a Strategist 2014-01-01 we make decisions every day yet we are sometimes perplexed by these decisions and the decisions of others to complicate things further we live in an age where there are more things to choose from than ever before the internet is transforming our choices and making us more accountable for them what we choose is recorded modelled and used to predict our future behaviour so are we in a position to make better choices today than we were a decade ago certainly there are some who believe so psychologists claim we are subject to hidden mental processes that lead us to one thing rather than another economists offer predictions about what people will buy and some philosophers claim that our choices echo our evolutionary past are these claims merited do they reflect the beginnings of a new science of choice this book offers a critical overview of these and other claims showing where they are justified and where they are exaggerated it will be an essential reference for anyone interested in whether science can help us to understand both the ways people make choices in their everyday lives and how these may be changing
