Textbooks in Academic Libraries 2018-12-03 shortly after the syllabi are posted and long before the beginning of the term interlibrary loan departments at academic libraries will have filled or rejected innumerable textbook requests while it would be unwise if not impossible to buy and circulate every textbook at a college or university there are many academic libraries who are selectively adding textbooks to their collections and the practice seems to be gaining momentum in this volume the association for library collections and technical services alcts and editor chris diaz gather case studies that pull together creative approaches and best practices for print textbook reserve programs this book discusses such topics as results and analysis from a detailed survey of a state university s core course textbook reserve program funding sources for starting or piloting a program using aggregated enrollment grade and textbook cost data to identify high impact courses identifying course related books that are in the library s collection or fit an existing collection policy workflow for using bookstore data with ils and purchasing systems and using libguides and google sheets to publicize textbook holdings and how a back end database supports discovery for students and reporting for reserves staff a textbook reserve program can be one way of helping students who are struggling with the high cost of textbooks and this book spotlights a variety of examples that can be used as models

The American Journal of Clinical Medicine 1911 over the past fifteen years northeast asia has witnessed growing intraregional exchanges and interactions especially in the realms of culture and economy still the region cannot escape from the burden of history this book examines the formation of historical memory in four northeast asian societies china japan south korea and taiwan and the united states focusing on the period from the beginning of the sino japanese war in 1931 until the formal conclusion of the pacific war with the san francisco peace treaty of 1951 the contributors analyse the recent efforts of korean japanese and chinese scholars to write a common history of northeast asia and question the underlying motivations for their efforts and subsequent achievements in doing so they contend that the greatest obstacle to reconciliation in northeast asia lies in the existence of divided and often conflicting historical memories the book argues that a more fruitful approach lies in understanding how historical memory has evolved in each country and been incorporated into respective master narratives through uncovering the existence of different master narratives it is hoped citizens will develop a more self critical self reflective approach to their own history and that such an introspective effort has the potential to lay the foundation for greater self and mutual understanding and eventual historical reconciliation in the region this book will be essential reading for students and scholars of asian history asian education and international relations in east asia
