national identity is not some naturally given or metaphysically sanctioned racial or territorial essence that only needs to be conceptualised or spelt out in discursive texts it emerges from takes shape in and is constantly defined and redefined in individual and collective performances it is in performances ranging from the scenarios of everyday interactions to cultural performances such as pageants festivals political manifestations or sports to the artistic performances of music dance theatre literature the visual and culinary arts and more recent media that cultural identity and a sense of nationhood are fashioned national identity is not an essence one is born with but something acquired in and through performances particularly important here are intercultural performances and transactions and that not only in a colonial and postcolonial dimension where such performative aspects have already been considered but also in inner european transactions englishness or britishness and italianità the subject of this anthology are staged both within each culture and more importantly in joint performances of difference across cultural borders performing difference highlights differences that make a difference it draws a line between self and other boundary lines that are however constantly being redrawn and renegotiated and remain instable and shifting between 1976 and 1983 in argentina the highest military and political state authorities committed a bloody crime against humanity more than thirty thousand women and men dissident and alleged to be dissident were killed by a murderous machine that after unconceivable acts of violence decided their disappearing by denying any fundamental right the mothers of plaza de mayo the association set up by the mothers of the disappeared ones the so called desaparecidos is still going on with its fight invoking justice francesca sassano lets the excruciating tragedy of those women come out through a clear and historically reliable story as a novel widening the echos of sorrow the questions of a large crowd the indifference generated by terror the incredulity of the rest of the world not to forget so that silence never becomes a comfortable blindfold nor an iron tip on the neck italy the country with a hundred cities and a thousand bell towers is also the country with a hundred cuisines and a thousand recipes its great variety of culinary practices reflects a history long dominated by regionalism and political division and has led to the common conception of italian food as a mosaic of regional customs rather than a single tradition nonetheless this magnificent new book demonstrates the development of a distinctive unified culinary tradition throughout the italian peninsula alberto capatti and massimo montanari uncover a network of culinary customs food lore and cooking practices dating back as far as the middle ages that are identifiably italian o italians used forks 300 years before other europeans possibly because they were needed to handle pasta which is slippery and dangerously hot o italians invented the practice of chilling drinks and may have invented ice cream o italian culinary practice influenced the rest of europe to place more emphasis on vegetables and less on meat o salad was a distinctive aspect of the italian meal as early as the sixteenth century the authors focus on culinary developments in the late medieval renaissance and baroque eras aided by a wealth of cookbooks produced throughout the early modern period they show how italy s culinary identities emerged over the course of the centuries through an exchange of information and techniques among geographical regions and social classes though temporally spatially and socially diverse these cuisines refer to a common experience that can be described as italian thematically organized around key issues in culinary history and beautifully illustrated italian cuisine is a rich history of the ingredients dishes techniques and social customs behind the italian food we know and love today
