Chinese Schools in Peninsular Malaysia 2011 the history of modern chinese schools in peninsular malaysia is a story of conflicts between chinese domiciled there and different governments that happened or happen to rule the land before the days of the pacific war the british found the chinese schools troublesome because of their pro china political activities they established measures to control them when the japanese ruled the malay peninsula they closed down all the chinese schools after the pacific war for a decade the british sought to convert the chinese schools into english schools the chinese schools decoupled themselves from china and survived a malay dominated government of independent peninsular malaysia allowed chinese primary schools to continue but finally changed many chinese secondary schools into national type secondary schools using malay as the main medium of instruction those that remained independent along with chinese colleges continued without government assistance the chinese community today continues to safeguard its educational institutions to ensure they survive malaysia s highly centralized and tightly controlled system of education fails in educating and integrating the young it is also ill suited for a plural society instead of the present rigid and uniform system the writer calls for one that is flexible and diverse but with a core of commonality there should also be private sector participation to provide competition and spur innovation achieving this requires radically changing the ministry of education from one obsessed with strict top down command to a more democratized model with power and responsibilities delegated to the periphery the minister is less a drill sergeant barking out orders to his raw recruits but more of a symphony conductor coaxing the best out of his skilled musicians the reforms suggested here will make malaysians fluently bilingual in malay and english science literate and mathematically competent as well as foster a common malaysian identity
