the decline of the indian parliament regarding the quality of debates duration of sittings and display of political courtesy to opponents has been discussed for over three decades now the decline of the indian parliament has recently sparked heated debate among scholars this is because several incidents involving mps have arisen plainly demonstrating how the people's elected representatives show no regard for the dignity of the holy chamber this theory combined with the regressive position of the judicial parlements in the french revolution led to a long tradition of distrust of judges in france the government du juges replaced the crown as the primary threat to popular will in french political thought gradual marginalisation of parliamentary committees according to data by prs legislative research the percentage of bills referred to departmentally related standing committees drsdeclined from 71 in the 15th lok sabha 2009 14 to 27 in the 16th lok sabha and just 11 in the 17th lok sabha 2019 present the declining productivity of the indian parliament has been a cause for concern in recent years as the 17th lok sabha the current term of india's lower house of parliament enters its final year with only 230 sitting days so far it is likely to have one of the shortest full term durations since 1952 the parliamentary decline thesis formed the dominant theory and narrative of legislative behaviour and capacity during the 20th century and yet in analytical terms the thesis provides a relatively blunt instrument for dissecting complex socio political relationships the functions powers and decline of parliaments chapter pp 13 23 cite this chapter download book pdf valentine herman juliet lodge 20 accesses 2 citations abstract with a few exceptions the nine national parliaments adopted both their constitutional role and their legislative procedures many years ago the indian parliament performing decline since the 1960s bairavee balasubramaniam in this chapter i aim to demonstrate how and why adopting performance as an analytical lens in the study of the indian parliament can deepen our understanding of the way political institutions operate we find that existing literature on indian parliament fails in explaining the paradox of declining parliamentary performance amidst its democratization in this article we highlight five such paradoxes the percentage of bills referred to parliamentary committees has drastically reduced from 71 per cent in the 15th lok sabha 2009 14 to 27 per cent in the 16th lok sabha 2014 19 and to only around 13 per cent since 2019 also read india's descent to a presidential state and the birth of parliamentary dictatorship just as government is accountable to parliament parliament as the highest legislative office of india owes its accountability to the people of india the highest sovereign authority in a democracy we are witnessing a steady decline in the use of productive time of lok sabha over the years lost golden age of parliamentary government in the uk government has no direct democratic mandate except over the small number of issues on which it holds referendums and is founded in the confidence of the house of commons from which most ministers are drawn declining role of parliament 1 low functioning in 2020 parliament sat in session for 33 days according to prs legislative research prs in the 2021 monsoon session the lok sabha was scheduled to work for six hours per day for 19 days instead it sat for 21 hours in total or 21 per cent of what was conceived all these trends are an indicator of the slow and unabated decline of parliamentary democracy in india the state of affairs demands urgent attention from both citizens and policymakers after all democratic and political norms are the lifeblood of a healthy democracy dissolution of a legislative assembly or parliament is the simultaneous termination of service of all of its members in anticipation that a successive legislative assembly will reconvene later with possibly different members in a democracy the new assembly is chosen by a general election enhancing parliamentary independence the following steps can help enhance independence of the parliament and hence effectiveness of its control over the executive the present form of overly restrictive anti defection law tend to discourage mps from voting based on their conscience on crucial issues q 1 how can one assess if the decline of parliament in india is happening on the ground the decline of parliament in india becomes glaring when a greater number of members with serious criminal cases against them get elected to the legislature this briefing summarises why parliamentary scrutiny matters what different kinds of parliamentary scrutiny exist at westminster some recent concerns about the decline of scrutiny and ways in which it can be protected and strengthened why does parliamentary scrutiny matter unlike in western
