My First Oxford Book of Stories 2001 excerpt from the all sorts of stories book this new story book is of a new sort for the tales are of many different kinds some are true like the history of the man who met in america the other man whom he had been hanged for murdering in england this may to any unthinking person seem all very natural but if you think hard you will wonder how the first man got to america after being hanged in england and how the second man after being murdered in england arrived in america neither event seems possible yet both actually occurred but this happened a hundred and fifty years ago and could not happen now when people do not hang a person for murder before they are quite certain that somebody has been murdered that the man said to have been slain is really dead again the man who was hanged would in our time have been buried as soon as he was believed to be dead but in times not so very far from ours a murderer when once thought dead was suspended in iron chains in a conspicuous place so that his crime and punishment might not be forgotten if you read the fairchild family by mrs sherwood who wrote about eighty years ago you will find that good mr fairchild took his naughty children to see a body of a murderer hanging in irons so that they might know what to expect if they let their angry passions rise this was what people call an object lesson but your dear papa cannot give you this kind of lesson now about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the
