The Ideology of Genre 2002

in a series of comparative essays on a range of texts embracing both high and popular culture from the early modern era to the contemporary period the ideology of genre counters both formalists and advocates of the death of genre arguing instead for the inevitability of genre as discursive mediation at the same time beebie demonstrates that genres are inherently unstable because they are produced intertextually by a system of differences without positive terms in short genre is the way texts get used to deny that genres exist is to deny in a sense the possibility of reading if genres exist on the other hand then they exist not as essences but as differences and thus those places within and between texts where genres collide reveal the connections between generic status interpretive strategy ideology and the use value of language

The Rhetoric and Ideology of Genre 2014-07-14

this book takes up issues of current concern in composition studies sociolinguistics and esl issues concerning academic literacy critical literacy expressive versus cognitive approaches to the teaching of writing and the like it does so in a practical experiential way drawing on events in classrooms in universities in south africa and the united states the contrast between the south african context and the american as well as their surprising parallels highlight certain questions concerning the teaching of literacy in a dramatic way so that theory and practice are brought together in contrast to writing programs that follow a textbook or a planned sequence of study the authors describe a narrative pedagogy that encourages students to find a direction and choose activities suggested by their own concerns and ongoing lives publisher

Notional Identities 2009-01-14

notional identities takes up the challenge of engaging with the popular genres of speculative fiction and crime fiction by scottish authors from the mid 1970s until the beginning of the twenty first century examining a variety of significant novels from across the decades in the light of wider considerations of ideology genre and national identity the book investigates the extent to which the national political and cultural climate of this tumultuous era informed the narrative form and social commentary of such works and considers the manner in which and the extent to which a specific and identifiably scottish response to these ideological matters can be identified in popular prose fiction during the period under discussion although scottish literary fiction of recent decades has been studied in considerable depth scottish popular genre literature has received markedly less critical scrutiny in comparison notional identities aims to help in redressing this balance examining popular scottish texts of the stated period in order to reflect upon whether a significant relationship can be discerned between genre fiction and the mainstream of scottish literary writing and to consider the characteristics of the literary connections which exist between these different modes of writing

Ideological Stylistics and Fictional Discourse 1991-11-30 this book focuses on ideology and its function in fictional discourse exploring the link between textual ideologies and real ideologies in text production environments it attempts this through a specific focus on the social and linguistic elements that control the presence the use and the presentation of ideology and also the way in which linguistic elements are controlled and manipulated by the collective consciousness of the text producer this correlation between fictional discourse and ideology is revealed through a series of chapters that cover four closely interrelated areas focusing specifically on malaysian and singaporean fiction firstly the positioning of malaysian and singaporean literatures in english as individual literary traditions this is to counter the non recognition of malaysian and singaporean literatures as individual traditions in spite of five decades of independence secondly establishing a contextual socio cultural and political framework as a basis for discussion on real ideology arguing that malaysian and singaporean writers have moved beyond the anti western nationalistic stage and on to more personal and communal concerns such as race relations identity and a sense of belonging thirdly rationalising the social structures of ideology that are likely to be found in the malaysian and singaporean social milieus especially location and text specific social variables of ideology lastly it seeks to reveal a linguistic oriented approach for the study of textual ideologies and for linking textual ideologies to ideologies in the overall text production environment the book ultimately shows the significant possibilities of systematic links between textual ideology and the real ideology in the text production environment through what can best be termed as ideological stylistics in doing so it aims to contribute significantly to studies of ideology in general and more specifically on ideology on malaysian and singaporean literatures in english marc redfield maintains that the literary genre of the bildungsroman brings into sharp focus the contradictions of aesthetics and also that aesthetics exemplifies what is called ideology he combines a wide ranging account of the history and theory of aesthetics with close readings of novels by goethe george eliot and gustave flaubert for redfield these fictions of character formation demonstrate the paradoxical relation between aesthetics and literature the notion of the bildungsroman may be expanded to apply to any text that can be figured as a subject producing itself in history which is to say any text whatsoever at the same time the category may be contracted to include only a handful of novels or even none at all a paradox that has led critics to denigrate the bildungsroman as a phantom genre
