Multilingual classroom contexts 2021-12-01 by far the majority of south african students get their schooling in a second language which means that our classrooms are multilingual this state of affairs is not exclusive to our country as can be seen in the many academic conferences on multilingual learning and teaching terms like translanguaging and biliteracy appear in many articles and books that discuss the role language in education what makes the multilingual nature of our south african classrooms challenging is the fact that many learners switch from one language of learning and teaching to another at various points in their school career from home language to english or afrikaans after the foundation phase from one language of learning and teaching to another when they move to new schools high school or tertiary institutions this book is an attempt to highlight the transitions from home to school from foundation to intermediate phase from primary to high school and from high school to tertiary institutions

Lessons from the Kalahari 2020-05-05 lessons from the kalahari tracking teachers professional development explores how northern cape teachers who were enrolled in a bachelor of education in service course responded to three professional development modules specialising in mathematics education english language teaching and foundation phase teaching respectively mainly through fine grained analyses of their classroom practice the studies in this volume demonstrate how these teachers grappled with new content knowledge and pedagogical innovations to improve the quality of teaching in their classrooms the chapters include case studies that range across a variety of pedagogical topics including mathematics and english teachers classroom practices involvement of parents of foundation phase learners and learners autonomous mathematics learning the book makes an original empirically based contribution to the understanding of the challenges confronting primary and secondary school teachers in remote rural parts of northern cape province south africa

Milton and Questions of History 2012-01-01 milton and questions of history considers the contribution of several classic studies of milton written by canadians in the twentieth century it contemplates whether these might be termed a coherent school of milton studies in canada and it explores how these concerns might intervene in current critical and scholarly debates on milton and more broadly on historicist criticism in its relationship to renewed interest in literary form the volume opens with a selection of seminal articles by noted scholars including northrop frye hugh mccallum douglas bush ernest sirluck and a s p woodhouse subsequent essays engage and contextualize these works while incorporating fresh intellectual concerns the introduction and afterword frame the contents so that they constitute a dialogue between past and present critical studies of milton by canadian scholars

Brandial '06 2006 this book challenges monoglossic ideologies traditional language pedagogies and dominant forms of knowledge construction by foregrounding multilingual and multicultural students language narratives repertoires and identities the research is based on a sixteen year longitudinal study of a sociolinguistics course at an english language university and the language narratives produced by the first year education students the study was borne out of a need to create a critically inclusive course that would engage a cohort of students from socially and linguistically diverse backgrounds in contemporary south africa drawing on data from over 5 000 students who have journeyed through this course this book shows how a narrative heteroglossic pedagogy harnesses students multilingual strengths a close analysis reveals complex identity work by students located in the global south the authors argue that decolonising language education is about reconceptualising language reconfiguring what knowledges are valued in the classroom and reshaping pedagogy

Language Narratives and Shifting Multilingual Pedagogies 2022-12-15 elementary set theory accustoms the students to mathematical abstraction includes the standard constructions of relations functions and orderings and leads to a discussion of the various orders of infinity the material on logic covers not only the standard statement logic and first order predicate logic but includes an introduction to formal systems axiomatization and model theory the section on algebra is presented with an emphasis on lattices as well as boolean and heyting algebras background for recent research in natural language semantics includes sections on lambda abstraction and generalized quantifiers chapters on automata theory and formal languages contain a discussion of languages between context free and context sensitive and form the background for much current work in syntactic theory and computational linguistics the many exercises not only reinforce basic skills but offer an entry to linguistic applications of mathematical concepts for upper level undergraduate students and graduate students in theoretical linguistics computer science students with interests in computational linguistics logic programming and artificial intelligence mathematicians and logicians with interests in linguistics and the semantics of natural language

Questions and Answers for the Mendip and Sunday Schools. Fourteenth edition 1800 this volume brings together many of south africa's leading scholars of education and covers the full range of south african schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy numeracy teacher development and curriculum change the book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions south african scholars are now grappling with are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they in practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers resources and learning outcomes while decidedly local these questions resonate throughout the developing world south africa today is the most unequal country in the world the richest 10 of south africans lay claim to 65 of national income and 90 of national wealth this is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most south african children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents looking back on almost three decades of democracy in south africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation justification and analysis this is a landmark book on basic education in south africa an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in south africa the various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race class and place the book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved what has not and why prof lant pritchett harvard university there is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in south africa no surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers early childhood education and adequate school resources south africa will continue to sacrifice its people s future to maintaining the privileges of the few prof martin carnoy stanford university altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume if not an exact blueprint for the future then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps dr luis crouch rti
