Flutter 2008-03-20

Flutter is a mobile application development framework that allows developers to build natively compiled applications for mobile, web, and desktop from a single codebase. It is built by Google and is used to develop high-performance, visually rich applications. Flutter uses Dart as its programming language and provides a rich set of widgets and a powerful rendering engine. It is designed to be easy to learn and use, and to integrate seamlessly with existing Android and iOS development workflows.

FLY 2008-06-30

FLY is a low-code development platform that allows users to build applications without writing code. It provides a visual interface for designing and building applications, and it handles the underlying development and deployment. FLY is designed to be easy to use and to integrate with existing systems. It is a good choice for users who want to build applications quickly and easily, without the need for a development team.
