Second Language Literacy Practices and Language Learning Outside the Classroom 2018-11-21

this book presents a comprehensive and detailed study of literacy practices and language use outside of the classroom by university students of Japanese. It investigates both tasks related to classes e.g. homework and preparation for classes and voluntary activities in the target language e.g. watching TV and writing emails and discusses how values, motivations and types of activities differ between the two contexts. It employs sociocultural perspectives to observe reading and writing activities within and under the influence of individual and social contexts such as learner motives, peer networks and the language classroom and contributes to the related research areas in the field of second language acquisition such as motivation, autonomous language learning and language learning strategies. Crucially, the book not only documents out-of-class literacy activities but also examines which teaching practices facilitate and promote such out-of-class language learning and use. It considers which literacy activities in the target language students undertake out of class, which factors encourage or discourage such out-of-class activity and how and with which tools they undertake these activities. As such, the book provides guidance for classroom teaching and suggests that slight changes to teaching practices in the classroom may enhance autonomous learning outside the classroom.

capturing children's meanings in early childhood research and practice draws together contemporary research and established theories to produce a unique take on the meanings children express through a range of creative tools drawing on Reggio Emilia and the Mosaic Approach. This book provides readers with a range of strategies for accessing, recording and interpreting young children's perceptions of and responses to their experiences, providing a synthesis of the multiple imaginative ways we can capture young children's meanings through observations, art, photo elicitation, mindfulness, music and other creative methods. Halpenny covers topics such as negotiating challenges presented by researching with children, frameworks for seeing and hearing children's intentions accurately, documenting and interpreting research findings, promoting children's meanings and their performance of them, moving forward with new understandings. This book is an indispensable resource for students of early childhood education, especially for courses focusing on the lived experiences of children from early to middle childhood. It is also a useful reference for those working with young children in educational and caregiving settings and for those advocating for young children.

educators and community based professionals are often required to work with children and families from a range of diverse backgrounds the second edition of this popular book goes beyond simplistic definitions of diversity encouraging a much broader understanding and helping childhood educators and community based professionals develop a critical disposition towards assumptions about children and childhood in relation to diversity difference and social justice as well as drawing on research the book gives an overview of relevant contemporary social theories including poststructuralism cultural studies critical theory postcolonialism critical race theory feminist perspectives and queer theory it interrogates practice and explores opportunities and strategies for creating a more equitable environment whilst covering key issues impacting on children s lives including globalization neoliberalism new racisms immigration indigeneity refugees homophobia heterosexism and constructions of childhood each chapter provides an overview of the area of discussion a focus on the implications for practice and recommended readings providing insight into how social justice practices in childhood education and community based service delivery can make a real difference in the lives of children their families and communities this is key reading for early childhood and primary educators community based professionals university students and researchers this thoughtful topical book addresses a considerable range of diversity issues relevant to teacher educators their students and other professionals who work with children and their families within and beyond australia indigenous issues including language maintenance and revival have particular relevance within postcolonial nation states other issues of international relevance include identities and retention of community languages gender equity childhood and sexuality poverty and inequalities and related policies the writing is critical scholarly and engaging this timely second edition draws on the authors longstanding teacher education experiences and their most recent research to revisit the challenges of diversity and difference in children s lives dr valerie n podmore former associate professor faculty of education and social work the university of auckland new zealand the second edition of robinson and jones d'az diversity and difference in childhood is a thoroughly welcome addition to my list of key texts for students of early childhood and childhood studies it provides a means from the outset for educating undergraduate students from within critical postmodern and post structural perspectives thus orienting their views of and actions within their future professions towards critical and equitable practices that value difference rather than treat it as a problem to be solved furthermore for practitioners who find themselves questioning modernist constructions of children development difference diversity and their work the book provides a thorough grounding in frameworks and tools that will help them re theorise what they are doing whilst simultaneously supporting them towards positive change alexandra c gunn associate dean teacher education university of otago college of education new zealand this is the 21st century early childhood education text diversity and difference in childhood provides early childhood educators and scholars a powerful space for asking social justice questions in a profoundly innovative way diversity and difference in childhood is not a traditional early childhood conversation as the authors appropriately suggest this book is for educators to challenge taken for granted knowledges practices and to take personal and professional risks for social justice

veronica pacini ketchabaw ph d professor school of child and youth care university of victoria canada this new edition of diversity and difference is both important and timely there is a new urgency to some emerging childhood issues including those associated with childhood sexuality and a distinct lack of critical resources to inform the debate this book helps fill this gap undertaking a major revision and incorporating new material the authors have ensured the book's continued relevance and renewed significance in the very dynamic context of childhood studies the book makes an important contribution to resourcing explorations of the many difficult and complex issues associated with childhood in a globalised yet differentiated world readers will find the new theoretical resources and additional chapters that have been included give the book a sense of enhanced rigour and its depth and breadth of coverage make it an ideal resource for a wide variety of interests and perspectives christine woodrow associate professor and senior researcher the centre for educational research western sydney university australia this book examines the role played by technologies in removing the disadvantage experienced by students with disabilities in higher education addressing five key themes the editor and contributors explore the practices required of stakeholders within higher education institutions to mediate successful and supportive relationships between disabled learners and their technologies ultimately the book argues that practice in the fields of disability ict and higher education is still not providing consistent and widespread positive learning experiences to students with disabilities in order to address this situation the field needs to creatively integrate knowledge gained through both research and practice and to re imagine what is needed for ict to meaningfully contribute to a reduction in disadvantage for disabled students this book will be of interest and value to scholars of disability studies education and accessibility and educational technologies significantly revised the fifth edition of the most complete accessible text now covers all three approaches to structural equation modeling: covariance based SEM, nonparametric SEM, Pearl's structural causal model, and composite SEM. Partial least squares path modeling with increased emphasis on freely available software tools such as the R lavaan package. The text uses data examples from multiple disciplines to provide a comprehensive understanding of all phases of SEM: what to know, best practices, and pitfalls to avoid. It includes exercises with answers, rules to remember, topic boxes, and a new self-test on significance testing regression and psychometrics. The companion website supplies helpful primers on these topics as well as data syntax and output for the book's examples in files that can be opened with any basic text editor. New to this edition: chapters on composite SEM (also called partial least squares path modeling) or variance based SEM; conducting SEM analyses in small samples and recent developments in mediation analysis; coverage of new reporting standards for SEM analyses; piecewise SEM (also called confirmatory path analysis) comparing alternative models fitted to the same data; and issues in multiple group SEM. Extended tutorials on techniques for dealing with missing data in SEM and instrumental variable methods to deal with confounding of target causal effects. Pedagogical features: new self-test of knowledge about background topics.
