Speaking in the Past Tense 2006-12-15 speaking in the past tense participates in an expanding critical dialogue on the writing of historical fiction providing a series of reflections on the process from the perspective of those souls intrepid enough to step onto what is practically by definition contested territory herb wyle from the introduction the extermination of the beothuk the exploration of the arctic the experiences of soldiers in the trenches during world war i the foibles of canada s longest serving prime minister the ojibway sniper who is credited with 378 wartime kills these are just some of the people and events discussed in these candid and wide ranging interviews with eleven authors whose novels are based on events in canadian history these sometimes startling conversations take the reader behind the scenes of the novels and into the minds of their authors through them we explore the writers motives for writing the challenges they faced in gathering information and presenting it in fictional form the sometimes hostile reaction they faced after publication and perhaps most interestingly the stories that didn t make it into their novels speaking in the past tense provides fascinating insights into the construction of national historical narratives and myths both those familiar to us and those that are still being written
