nesta história pungente e poderosa meridian trava uma batalha solitária para reafirmar sua própria humanidade no movimento pelos direitos civis nos estados unidos meridian é o segundo romance de alice walker ganhadora do prêmio pulitzer e do american book award por a cor púrpura escrita em 1976 a narrativa reflete as meditações e vivências da própria autora acerca dos caminhos e desafios do movimento pelos direitos civis nos estados unidos durante os anos 1960 e 1970 um dos sentidos possíveis para a palavra meridian em português meridiano é meio dia a partir dessa ideia walker com um estilo direto e ao mesmo tempo sensível constrói sua personagem sob luz solar intensa expondo questões sobre raça gênero e classe a partir da trajetória de amadurecimento político e espiritual da protagonista a costura de lembranças místicas da infância com a descoberta da sexualidade e do racismo do amor romântico e fraterno do medo e da coragem é um dos elementos que constroem a história meridian é mulher negra pobre nascida no sul dos estados unidos e dotada de grande força intelectual e de vida consciente das opressões que marcam sua comunidade ela questiona se em um mundo violento é preciso reagir também com violência a busca pela medida justa se torna então algo incontornável na ética de sua militância política meridian é um chamado por um caminho do meio não condescendente mas amoroso implacável tenro e responsável contra o racismo e os demais preconceitos a que é submetida a vivência de pessoas negras alice walker desenha com maestria as sinuosidades da violência e do amor e expõe as multivalências do humano em um momento em que a face da existência se vira para a ameaça walker nos oferece a própria força e a esperança por um futuro mais fraterno e igualitário um romance fino e tenso um livro enxuto que escorre como água límpida extraordinário the new york times book review lindamente apresentado e totalmente convincente the new yorker the color purple studies the american south philosophy psychology sociology spirituality and new age literature and ecology and eco feminism revealing the maternal as not a core identity but a site of profound psychic and social division hansen illuminates recent decades of feminist thought and explores novels by jane rule alice walker louise erdrich and michael dorris marge piercy margaret atwood and fay weldon unlike traditional stories of abandoned children and bad mothers these narratives refuse to sentimentalize motherhood s losses and impasses hansen embraces the larger cultural story of what it means to be a mother and illuminates how motherhood is being reimagined today this title is part of uc press s voices revived program which commemorates university of california press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 voices revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology this title was originally published in 1997 since the early 1970s southern fiction has been increasingly attentive to social issues including the continuing struggles for racial justice and gender equality the loss of a sense of social community and the decline of a coherent regional identity the essays in the world is our home focus on writers who have explicitly addressed social and cultural issues in their fiction and drama including dorothy allison horton foote ernest j gaines jill mccorkle walker percy lee smith william styron alice walker and many others the contributors provide valuable insights into the transformation of southern culture over the past thirty years and probe the social and cultural divisions that persist the collection makes an important case for the centrality of social critique in contemporary southern fiction a theory formulated by alice walker womanism focuses on the unification of men and women with nature and earth this book explores womanism with regards to its specific concerns with african american women s rights identities and self actualisation and points towards its more overarching concerns with human relations and sexual freedom as expressed in each of walker s seven novels although walker introduced the term womanism in 1983 this book traces the development of the concept across her canon of fictional works by analysing the novels written in the 1970s this book establishes how the term came to be coined and demonstrates how womanism went on to be further developed and complexly wrought throughout walker s literary career first published in 1994 routledge is an imprint of taylor francis an informa company this collection of critical essays examines the contributions to and influences on literature that have been made by southern women writers from publisher description focus on the works of toni morrison gaye jones and alice walker presents a collection of critical essays about communities dickson carr also discusses the debates and controversies regarding the role of literature in african american life the volume concludes with an extensive annotated bibliography of african american fiction and criticism american women writers have long been creating an extraordinarily diverse and vital body of fiction particularly in the decades since world war ii recent authors have benefited from the struggles of their predecessors who broke through barriers that denied women opportunities for self expression this reference highlights american women writers who continue to build upon the formerly male dominated canon included are alphabetically arranged entries for more than 60 american women writers of diverse ethnicity who wrote or published their most significant fiction after world war ii each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes 1 dbia brief biography 1 dbia discussion of major works and themes dbia survey of the writer s critical reception 1 dbia bibliography of primary and secondary sources the third life of grange copeland an african american tenant farmer having fled georgia years earlier for the north returns home to face his wife s death his son s imprisonment and a last chance at personal salvation meridian meridian hill is a deserted teenage mother who volunteers to help in the local civil rights movement the color purple set in the period between the world wars this novel tells of two sisters their trials and their survival images of upraised fists afros and dashikis have long dominated the collective memory of black power and its proponents the guerilla figure taking the form of the black leather clad revolutionary within the black panther party has become an iconic trope in american popular culture that politically radical figure however has been shaped as much by asian american cultural discourse as by african american political ideology from the asian african conference held in april of 1955 in bandung indonesia onward to the present afro asian political collaboration has been active and influential in black power yellow power and the making of revolutionary identities author rychetta watkins uses the guerilla figure as a point of departure and shows how the trope s rhetoric animates discourses of representation and identity in african american and asian american literature and culture in doing so she examines the notion of power in terms of ethnic political identity and explores collaborating and sometimes competing ethnic interests that have drawn ideas from the concept the project brings together a range of texts editorial cartoons newspaper articles novels visual propaganda and essays that illustrate the emergence of this subjectivity in asian american and african american cultural productions during the power period roughly 1966 through 1981 after a case study of the cultural politics of academic anthologies and the cooperation between frank chin and ishmael reed the volume culminates with analyses of this trope in sam greenlee s the spook who sat by the door alice walker s meridian and john okada s no no boy originally published in 1982 all the women are white all the blacks are men but some of us are brave black women s studies is the first comprehensive collection of black feminist scholarship featuring contributions from alice walker and the combahee river collective this book is vital to today s conversation on race and gender in america with an afterword from salon columnist brittney cooper coeditors akasha gloria t hull patricia bell scott and barbara smith are authors and former women s studies professors brittney cooper is an assistant professor of women and gender studies and africana studies at rutgers university and a co founder of the crunk feminist collective devoted to and inspired by the late maxine greene a champion of education and advocator of the arts this book recognizes the importance of greene s scholarship by revisiting her oeuvre in the context of the intellectual historicity that shaped its formation as a scholar greene dialogued with philosophers social theorists writers musicians and artists these conversations reveal the ways in which the arts just like philosophy and science allow for the facilitation of wide awakesness a term that is central to greene s pedagogy amidst contemporary trends of neoliberal one size fits all curriculum reforms in which the arts are typically squeezed out or pushed aside greene s work reminds us that the social imagination is stunted without the arts artistic ways of knowing allow for people to see beyond their own worlds and beyond what is into other worlds of what was and what might be some day this volume demonstrates maxine greene s profound ability to illuminate the importance of the artistic world and the imaginary for development of the self in the world and for encouraging a wide awakesness reflective of an emerging political awareness and a longing for a democratic world that is not yet this book was originally published as a special issue of the review of education pedagogy and cultural studies this accessible and unusually wide ranging book is essential reading for anyone interested in postcolonial and african american womens writing it provides a valuable gender and culture inflected critical introduction to well established women writers toni morrison alice walker margaret atwood suniti namjoshi bessie head and others from the u s a india africa britain australia new zealand and introduces emergent writers from south east asia cyprus and oceania engaging with and clarifying contested critical areas of feminism and the postcolonial exploring historical background and cultural context economic political and psychoanalytic influences on gendered experience it provides a cohesive discussion of key issues such as cultural and gendered identity motherhood mothertongue language relationships women s economic constraints and sexual politics organised around each decade of the post war period this book analyses novels written by and for women from 1945 to the present each chapter identifies a specific genre in popular fiction for women which marked that period and provides case studies focusing on writers and texts which enjoyed a wide readership despite their popularity these novels remain largely outside the canon of women s writing and are often unacknowledged by feminist literary criticism however these texts clearly touched a nerve with a largely female readership and so offer a means of charting the changes in ideals of femininity and in the tensions and contradictions in gender identities in the post war period their analysis offers new insights into the shifting demands aspirations and expectations of what a woman could and should be over the last half century through her analysis of women s writing and
