The Edinburgh Journal of Science ... Conducted by (Sir) David Brewster 1824

in the spirit of his highly acclaimed and influential book Reality Hunger David Shields has composed a mordantly funny relentlessly self-questioning self-portrait based on questions that interviewers have asked him over forty years. David Shields decided to gather every interview he's ever given going back nearly forty years if it was on the radio or tv or a podcast he transcribed it. He wasn't sure what he was looking for but he knew he wasn't interested in any of his own answers. The questions interested him approximately 2,700 which he condensed and collated to form twenty-two chapters focused on such subjects as process, childhood, failure, capitalism, suicide, and comedy. Then according to Shields, the real work began: rewriting and editing and remixing the questions and finding a through-line. The result is a lacerating self-demolition in which the author in this case a late middle-aged white man is strangely thrillingly absent. As Chuck Klosterman says, the very last interview is David Shields doing what he has done dazzlingly for the past twenty-five years: interrogating his own intellectual experience by changing the meaning of what seems both obviously straightforward and obviously wrong. Shields's new book is a sequel of sorts to his seminal Reality Hunger, a manifesto which literary hub Reedsy recently named one of the most important books of the last decade according to Kenneth Goldsmith. Just when you think Shields couldn't rethink and reinvent literature any further, he does it again. The very last interview confirms Shields as the most dangerously important American writer since Burroughs.

The David Chronicles 2021-02-12

Have you ever felt useless or far away from God? Do you wish you could relate to God the way Bible characters do? Let Grandma Mary share what she has learned from King David to help you see how to grow in God and carry on whatever your past has been. This book is biblical fiction centering on King David's early life. The first book in the series, the book offers a 4 in 1 benefit: learn why God picked a shepherd to be a king, endear yourself to Bible characters through the fictional episodes, cultivate a better understanding of God and the Bible, personal growth, learn how to carry on in your own life. The author, Mary Stegmiller, has failed, felt useless, and thought of giving up with God's grace. She dug in to carry on. She writes to encourage people and give hope to anyone who needs to know: failing does not make you a failure. She is a dreamer and a storyteller who wants to make the Bible and biblical characters come alive for the reader. She contrasts King David's lessons with the own for the readers to see that the God of the Bronze Age is the God of the Electric Age so they might gain a desire to seek Him. I hope sharing my stories and poetry will help my readers draw closer to God. Laugh, cry, find the courage to pursue their purpose and carry on.

The Edinburgh Encyclopædia Conducted by David Brewster, with the Assistance of Gentlemen Eminent in Science and Literature 1832

The second book in the author's trilogy, this one depicting the history of the ancient Hebrews at its culmination during the reigns of David and Solomon. The first of the trilogy is The Pillar of Fire, which was used as the basis for the movie The Ten Commandments, and the third is The Prince of the House of David. The present work illustrates the grandeur of Hebrew history under the reigns of David and Solomon at the height of their power and glory as a nation. The central figure of this work is David, prophet, priest, and king. A popular novel from this prolific novelist and minister from Holly Springs, Mississippi.

David's Story 2018-06-06

David Kellogg Lewis 1941-2001 was one of the most influential philosophers of the twentieth century. He made significant contributions to almost every area of analytic philosophy, including metaphysics, philosophy of language, philosophy of mind, and philosophy of science, and set the agenda for various debates in these areas which carry on to this day. In several respects, he remains a contemporary figure, yet enough time has now passed for historians of philosophy to begin to study his place in twentieth-century thought. His philosophy was constructed and refined not just through his published writing but also crucially through his life-long correspondence with fellow philosophers, including leading figures such as D. M. Armstrong, Saul Kripke, W. V. Quine, J. J. C. Smart, and Peter van Inwagen. His letters formed the undercurrent of his published work and became the medium through which he proposed many of his well-known theories and discussed a range of philosophical topics in depth. A selection of his vast correspondence over a 40-year period is presented here across two volumes. As metaphysics is arguably where Lewis made his greatest contribution, this forms the focus of Volume 1, arranged under the broad areas of causation, modality, and ontology. The letters offer an organic story of the origins, development, breadth, and depth of his metaphysics in its historical context, as well as a glimpse into the influence of his many interlocutors. This volume will be an indispensable resource for contemporary metaphysics and for those interested in the Lewisian perspective.

Explore new worlds in this riveting sci-fi novel. In David Vann's searing novel Goat Mountain, an 11-year-old boy at his family's annual deer hunt is eager to make his first kill. His father discovers a poacher on the land, a 640-acre ranch in northern California, and shows him to the boy through the scope of his rifle. With this simple gesture, tragedy erupts, shattering lives irrevocably. In prose that is devastating and beautiful in its precision, David Vann creates a haunting and provocative novel that explores our most primal urges and beliefs, the bonds of blood and religion that define and secure us, and the consequences of our actions: what we owe for what we've done. David Vann is the award-winning author of Legend, A Suicide Caribou Island, A Mile Down, and Last Day on Earth.
