ocean read the letters find out how the girls become friends judaism christianity and islam are considered kindred religions holding ancestral heritages and monotheistic belief in common but there are definitive distinctions between these abrahamic peoples shared stories rival tellings explores the early exchanges of jews christians and muslims and argues that their interactions were dominated by debates over the meanings of certain stories sacred to all three communities robert c gregg shows how jewish christian and muslim interpreters artists as well as authors developed their unique and particular understandings of narratives present in the two bibles and the gur an gregg focuses on five stories cain and abel sarah and hagar joseph and potiphar s wife jonah and the whale and mary the mother of jesus as he guides us through the often intentional variations introduced into these shared stories gregg exposes major issues under contention and the social intellectual forces that contributed to spirited and sometimes combative exchanges among jews christians and muslims offering deeper insight into these historical moments and their implications for contemporary relations among the three religions shared stories rival tellings will inspire readers to consider and reconsider the dynamics of traditional and current social religious competition shared stories from daughters of alzheimer s is a support group in print for those escorting a loved one on the alzheimer s journey nine women map the passage of a parent through alzheimer s disease describing the into marissa s life is a quirky take on fashion prison rules explores the possibilities of renewed lives lola s wedding captures a beautiful wedding and maven is a futuristic look at young love this edited book draws from work that focuses on the act of telling family stories as well as their content and structure the process of telling family stories is linked to central aspects of development including language acquisition affect regulation and family interaction patterns this book extends across traditional developmental psychology personality theory and family studies drawing broadly on the epigenetic framework for individual development articulated by erik erikson as well as on conceptions of the family life cycle the editors bring together contemporary examples of psychological research on family stories and their implications for development and change at different points in the life course the book is divided into sections that focus on family stories at different points in the life cycle from early childhood and the beginnings of narrative skill through adolescence young adulthood midlife and then mature adulthood and its intergenerational meaning during each of these periods of the life cycle research focusing on individual development within an eriksonian framework of ego strengths and virtues is highlighted the dynamic role of family stories is also featured here with work exploring the links between family process intergenerational attachment and storytelling sociocultural theories that emphasize how such development is situated in the wider cultural context are also featured in several chapters this broad lifespan developmental focus serves to integrate the exciting diversity of this work and foster further questions and research in the emerging field of family narrative the book is intended primarily for researchers and advanced level students in the fields of developmental and personality psychology as well as those in family studies and in gerontology it may also be of interest to those in the helping professions who are concerned with family therapy and family issues and may due to its content and illustrative material have appeal to a wider market of the lay public the chapters are written in a readily accessible style and the analyses are presented in a fairly non technical way because family stories are charted across the lifespan it would be a suitable companion book to a more traditional lifespan textbook in certain courses sharing our stories of survival is a comprehensive treatment of the socio legal issues that arise in the context of violence against native women written by social scientists writers poets and survivors of violence the role of parent child and teacher child shared story telling and storybook reading is a key vehicle for supporting children's development of emergent literacy and early language skills this highly usable and practical book brings the advantages of sharing books and stories to educational and clinical settings effectively demonstrating how it may be used to support print knowledge phonological awareness vocabulary inferential language abilities grammatical and narrative skills with contributions from notable scholars who actively conduct research in the areas of education developmental psychology speech language pathology reading and early literacy this unique resource synthesizes and applies current theory and research on uses of sharing books and stories in educational and intervention contexts this book deals with literary representations of the genocide of the tutsis in rwanda the focus is a transnational polyphonic writing project entitled rwanda écrire par devoir de mémoire rwanda writing by duty of memory undertaken in 1998 by a group of nine african authors this work emphasizes the afropolitan cultural frame in which the texts were conceived and written instead of using western and eurocentric tropes this volume looks at a so called minority trauma an african conflict situated in a collectivist society and written about by writers from african origin this approach enables a more situated study in which it becomes possible to draw out the local notions of ubuntu oral testimonies mourning traditions healing and storytelling strategies and the presence of the invisible as these texts are written in french and to date not all of them have been translated into english most academic research has been done in french this book thus assists in connecting english speaking readers not only to a set of texts written in french with significant literary and cultural value but also to francophone trauma studies research it is an extraordinary but well documented phenomenon two people who seem relatively harmless alone team up and the results are terrifyingly explosive such unfortunate unions have been behind some of the most shocking news stories of recent years but what is it that makes couples like myra hindley and ian brady follow such a twisted path of sociopathic violence he offers a rare if uncomfortable insight into the truth behind the headlines and exposes some of the most cold blooded killers that the world has ever seen included are some well known cases including the sickening murders committed by fred and rose west at their very own house of horror 25 cromwell street other cases are more obscure but equally fascinating such as the story of cynthia coffman and james gregory marlow whose relationship led to three brutal murders every one of the 22 cases of shared madness is a uniquely revealing study making this a must read for anyone with an interest in true crime and criminal psychology over the past few decades the complicated divides of geography class religion and race created deep fractures in the united states each side fighting to advance its own mythology and political interests we lack a central story a common ground we can celebrate and enrich with deeper meaning unable to
