22nd June 2023 the creators of Britannia are teaming up again for another TV series British actor David Morrissey and showrunner Tom Butterworth are working together again on the Dirty Squad set in 1970s Britain. The brand new original drama series is based on the first exposé of corruption within the London Metropolitan Police, the Dirty Squad, which is written by showrunner Tom Butterworth. Gangs of London from an idea of Morrissey's, The Walking Dead will examine corruption at the heart of the Met Police during its so-called 'odd' years. Many thought the notorious Dirty Squad seemed happy to ignore the steady proliferation of sleazy Soho sex shops while continuing to seek prosecutions against hippie magazines such as Oz, The Little Red Schoolbook, and International Times when they raided and closed down the John Lennon exhibition on New Bond Street. A few years ago its biggest single investigation was into powerful allegations against senior commanders from the Met's Obscene Publications Squad, known as the Dirty Squad.

May 13, 2023, in Entertainment Weekly: Vertigo Films is partnering with its Britannia team, Tom Butterworth and David Morrissey, for the Dirty Squad, a new original drama series based on the first exposé of corruption within the London Metropolitan Police. Soho was notorious for officer corruption in the seventies, so much so the cops there were nicknamed the Dirty Squad. The greed and brazen attitudes of certain officers shocked me.
